Mother Jones.
Orders From London.
344 Loops.
Forest Fire Interlude.
—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MOTHER JONES, who has just celebrated he one hundredth birthday, has been all her life fighting for working people and their unions, for better pay, shorter hours.

She has not lost faith or enthusiasm, even when prosperous times and good pay made men neglect their unions, or when private arrangements made leaders sell out their men.

THE DAY of individual fighters like Mother Jones has gone. Modern unions, able to buy office buildings worth twenty millions, as one did recently in New York, are run on a big scale.

Agreements with capital, which can always get cost plus from the public, take the place of such schoolings as made the Carnegie Homestead strike unpleasant for workers. Union labor has become part of big business. If her youth could return, Mother Jones, in the eyes of modern union labor, would be classed as a "Bolshevik."

BRITISHERS, well informed in naval affairs, find two interesting facts in the grand and glorious arrangement based on our trip to London for orders.

We are compelled to build certain cruisers that we do not want. And no matter what we do, under the London agreement, we shall not have parity with England.

That comes of sending nice, smooth corporation gentlemen to deal with statesmen.

AT ST. LOUIS Miss Laura Ingalls, of New York, 25 years old, beat all woman's records by executing 344 loops, or somersaults, in the air, one after the other. She stopped for gasoline and looped 66 more loops, just to prove that she was not dizzy.

Looping is not particularly useful. But it proves the solid build of modern airplanes, and of the wonderful human body.

AS THE PRECEDING lines were written a message came over the telephone:

"Forest fires very bad. A couple of thousand acres of your woods burned over already and the fire is right back of your new house."

THAT COMPELLED a pause in the day's occupation of several hours. Forest fires in Southern New Jersey are bad fires. That Northern end of the "Georgia Pine Belt" is covered with trees rich in rosin.

Thousands of tall pines blazing, to the tops, like huge torches make an impressive sight.

And trying to fight such a fire, shoveling sand in the path of the creeping blaze, is hot, smoky work. After you have shoveled for 10 minutes, you wonder how it is possible to hire men for that work, at 50 cents an hour.

MRS. HAVENS, who lives just across the Manasquan River, from the Monmouth County Boy Scout camp at Allaire, watched the fire roaring toward her house with grim philosophy. Thomas Macaulay had gone in his car to take her away from her house, then in great danger. Mrs. Havens, nearly eighty, knows what she wants to do, and finds words to express it:

"There ain't nobody more askairt of fire than what I be I've known the fire to jump across a field 700 feet wide. And I've seen big fires in these woods in the last 50 years. But the wind is not so very high, and I don't think it will jump across the river. So I ain't a'going to move."

TO YOUR remonstrance she replies that she has some valuable hens, a cow that can't be beat, and she stays where she is, promising to move if the fire comes much closer.

TEN MEN, backfiring and shoveling sand were greeted by a young Boy Scout:

"Everything all right here? Anything I can do for you? No, I haven't got a shovel. O. K. Let me know if there is anything I can do to help you."

And he went off to offer assistance elsewhere on the fire line.

CROWDS IN automobiles, watching the fire spreading over thousands of acres wondered whether government would ever find a way to combat such fires from the air. In Southern New Jersey forest fires represent only moderate loss for individual owners.

In the West and Northwest they menace the national timber reserve.

The most exciting moment in a fire that was dramatic, in its fierce blazing, came with the appearance of a wild baby rabbit, galloping feebly away from the fire, on the fire side of a high rabbit-proof fence. It had lost its mother and was frightened.

Fifty Boy Scouts shouted friendly encouragement to the terrified little creature, and grown men shouted and waved to help and direct when the bewildered animal turned back toward the blaze.

It escaped.

'BOOTLEG SUPPLY' SEIZURE UPHELD

INDIA TENSE AT SEIZURE OF GANDHI

BULLETIN.

BOMBAY, May 5.—(AP.)—More than 100,000 followers of Mahatma Gandhi assembled in a mass demonstration this evening. Speakers addressed the multitude from seven platforms, congratulating Gandhi upon his arrest.

BOMBAY, India, May 5.—(AP.)—The Indian government today caused the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi, thus for the moment halting the civil resistance campaign upon which for more than two months it had looked with patient eye and effectually preventing entry of "the holy one" into Bombay.

Gandhi's arrest, made early today, was followed by a silence upon the part of his followers so intense as to give no indication of what their attitude would be. The Mahatma himself was mute. Whirled away to Poona, where for the third time in his eventful career prison doors closed behind him, he made no statement, voiced no threat. Mrs. Gandhi alone spoke for him. She said:

WIFE DEFIANT

"I fervently hope India will show her mettle and give a fitting reply to the government's unwarranted action."

Shops owned by Hindus and most Moslem-owned shops throughout Bombay closed in protest at the arrest. The Cotton and Seed Exchange suspended business.

The government requisitioned two detachments of the East Lancashire Regiment and posted them in the heart of the mill area and at police headquarters. As a further precaution a volun-

BIG GAINS IN HOME DISTRICTS

Census Count Shows Trend Of Population Here Away From Factory Sections

Additional census returns announced today by James E. Routley, A. D. Levy and George Metzgar, supervisors for Allegheny County, show marked gains in population in some communities and a standstill in others. Residential wards in the city have made marked gains, while the older wards in the business and industrial districts indicate fewer residents and the fact that those areas are being given over to commercial enterprises.

SOUTH HILLS GAINS

Three South Hills wards of the city, reported late today, gave an impetus to the totals for Pittsburgh. The Twenty-ninth Ward, formerly Carrick borough, increased more than 50 per cent, the figures being 16,040 against 10,504 in 1920. The Thirtieth Ward, formerly Knoxville borough, showed 8,207 against 7,201 in 1920.

The Thirty-second Ward, formerly Overbrook borough, and parts of Baldwin Township, has 4,966 inhabitants.

The totals for the Fourth, Fifth and Twelfth wards, with one district missing in each, and the Thirteenth and Fifteenth wards complete, were compiled today. They show the following returns: Fourth, 25,829 against 26,191 in 1920; Fifth, 28,012 against 29,283 in 1920; Twelfth, 25,688 against 25,239 in 1920; Thirteenth, 30,338 against 29,224 in 1920; Fifteenth, 27,136 against 27,976.

LEAVE CROWDED SECTIONS

Braddock Borough, returned today, except one district, shows a population of 17,217, against 20,879 in 1920. This falling off is explained by the fact that many Braddock business men and per-

HIGH COURT RULES RAID LEGAL

Appeal Against Confiscation Of Stamps, Keys, Bottles By Agents Here Loses

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The government today won a signal legal victory when the Supreme Court ruled that bottles, barrels, corks, kegs and labels useful in making intoxicating liquor illegally, can be seized by the government.

Decision of the court, which was unanimous, was made on the appeal of Ike Danovitz, surviving partner of the Feitler Bottling Company of Pittsburgh.

Other outstanding prohibition developments today:

1—The Supreme Court consented to determine whether sellers of illegal liquor may be prosecuted under both the prohibition and internal revenue acts.

2—The House bill transferring prohibition enforcement from the Treasury to the Justice Department was approved with amendments by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

COURTS HERE UPHELD

The ruling in the Danovitz case upheld the seizure of articles offered in such a way as purposely to attract purchasers who intend to manufacture illegal liquor.

Sustaining the lower courts, the highest tribunal held that the government was justified in seizing 57 truck loads of bottles and other equipment belonging to the Feitler Company.

Danovitz had protested that the government was following a policy under which it could raid all places selling bottles, casks and other containers.

The government contended that the prohibition against manufacture was broad enough to include

FRENCH HURLS AGAINST GIANTS

The Giants occupied Pittsburgh this morning and prospects were bright for some big excitement at Forbes Field during the four afternoons, beginning today.

The New York chieftain led his athletes here from Cincinnati where they amassed something like 20 runs, yet won only one ball game. That doesn't speak so well for the Giant pitching staff, but it shows the club is fighting.

McGraw will throw his crack lefthander, Bill Walker, at the Pirates this afternoon in the first game of the series. Manager Ens will use Larry French in the hurling role.

There is nothing new to report on Pie Traynor, whose left eye still bothers him. Lloyd Waner is in Baltimore taking special treatment and therefore is out indefinitely.

All the games of the series will start at 3:30.

BLUE LAW POLL WIDESPREAD

All the wards of the city are embraced in the Blue Law poll of Pittsburgh as the distribution of post card ballots is extended today to districts of six remaining wards.

The districts into which the latest consignment of ballots are mailed are included in six North Side wards, two South Side wards, part of the Hill district and the Lincoln avenue district.

The canvass is thus in operation in from three to seven voting districts in every ward, constituting between 15 and 20 per cent of the voters registered in each ward for the last general election.

An additional distribution of ballots to all the wards will follow, with a similar proportion of voting districts in each ward to be canvassed. This cycle of distribution will follow until all registered voters of the city have an opportunity of recording their sentiments regarding the continuance, modification or repeal of the existing law regulating Sunday observance in Pennsylvania.

The volume of ballots to be returned to headquarters is expected to grow daily, as those receiving cards have an opportunity to mark their preference of the three questions presented and place the ballots in the mail.

In the few days since the first ballots were mailed, the response of voters has indicated the widespread interest the poll has aroused.

The machinery for the tabulation of the returns has been set up and a count in each ward will be made as substantial numbers of ballots are received.

STUDENTS LEAP FLEEING FIRE

Trapped by smoke on the third story of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity house, 4712 Bayard street, early today, 10 University of Pittsburgh students leaped from a third floor window to the roof of a porch and thence to the ground.

Two were injured in the leap. They were taken to Homeopathic Hospital.

Six other students escaped safely from the frat house by groping through the smoke-filled rooms and down the stairway.

The fire originated in waste paper in a clothes chute. Ten students asleep on the top floor were saved from possible asphyxiation when one was awakened by the fumes and spread the alarm. The 10 leaped.

The injured students are Robert Klein, 19, cut on leg, and Blair Reid, 22, cut on hand. After treatment at the hospital they left.

Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze in the clothes chute. The damage was estimated at $25.

WINTERS SHOWS MARKED GAIN

City Controller Daniel Winters is in "very grave condition," although today he showed improvement, the Sun-Telegraph was informed by his son, Bert Winters.

The son is at the bedside of his father in the Cunningham Sanitarium, Cleveland, O. Over the telephone he said:

"The controller seemed a little better this morning and ate some breakfast. But his condition remains very grave."

Physicians at the hospital this afternoon stated they noted a marked rally and that his condition was the most satisfactory it had been for several days.

Dr. J. P. Kerr, intimate friend of the former president of City Council, returned to Pittsburgh last night from Winters' bedside.

Winters has been ill for several months. He is suffering a complication of diseases.

WABASH MOVES TO BUY W. & L. E.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP.)—Authorization to purchase control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad, which was allocated to it in the official plan for consolidation of railroads, was sought today by the Wabash Railway in an application to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Wabash asked permission to acquire the Wheeling and Lake Erie in its proposal to consolidate a number of Eastern and Middle Western roads last year, but this application was withdrawn recently at the suggestion of the Commission.

In withdrawing, William H. Williams, chairman of the board of the Wabash, notified the Commission that he had been authorized by his directors to carry on the steps necessary to carry through the consolidation plan adopted by the Commission under which the Wabash would head a fifth Eastern trunk line system.

Teacher, Mate Reunited By Love of 2 Children

Love for two children has reunited Paul L. Reed, 30, of Langley avenue, and his wife, Rhoda, 27, a school teacher of Aliquippa, Pa.

The husband testified before Judge Frank P. Patterson in court today that he would drop habeas corpus proceedings he instituted several weeks ago to gain possession of his daughters, Paula Margaret, 4, and Rhoda Bell, 2, as he and his wife had settled their differences.

Reed testified:

"My wife will quit teaching school at the close of the present term and I will establish a home for her and our children."

He said love for their daughters had caused them to decide to live together again.

Both children were suffering from whooping cough today at the home of their maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Rittenhouse, in Wildwood, where they have been kept since their parents separated last November 22. Their mother was not in court.

The court made an order giving both parents possession of the girls.

PATRONAGE OFFERED FOR PARKER VOTES, SAYS SENATOR

LOBBY QUIZ ON CHARGE DEMANDED

Hoover Administration Held Responsible in Attack By Ashurst, of Arizona

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The Hoover administration was charged in the Senate today with offering "federal judgeships and other appointments" to procure votes for confirmation of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, as an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Senator Ashurst (Dem.), of Arizona, made the charge and demanded in a speech that the Senate's Lobby Committee be instructed to investigate the "lobby" working for Parker's confirmation. The charge startled the Senate.

"HOOVER UNAWARE"

President Hoover never saw the letter of Joseph M. Dixon, assistant secretary of the interior, urging the appointment of Judge Parker to the Supreme Court as a "political master stroke." Attorney General William D. Mitchell told the Senate in defending the jurist's nomination.

Mitchell wrote Senator Stephens (Dem.), of Mississippi, a Parker leader, declaring the President had not indulged in politics in selecting Parker.

ATTACK OPENS

Mitchell, however, admitted that the President took into consideration the fact that Parker was a Republican and came from the Fourth Circuit, which had not been represented in the Supreme Court for 60 years.

Stephens read the letter to the Senate, and it immediately provoked an attack from Senator Caraway (Dem.), of Arkansas, an anti-Parkerite.

FOREST BLAZES TAKE TOLL OF MILLIONS

Two Villages Destroyed in New Jersey; Brush Fires Raze Long Island Homes

International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 5.—Forest fires today took a terrific toll in eastern states.

On Staten Island, New York, three disastrous brush fires destroyed property worth $600,000. On Long Island, New York, brush fires destroyed property worth $200,000. On Long Island, New York, brush fires destroyed many homes with a property loss of $250,000.

The forest fires are due to an exceptionally dry season and hopes for their partial subjugation can be based on expected thunder showers within the next 36 hours, Dr. James H. Scarr, chief meteorologist of the weather bureau, said. He added:

"The rainfall has been below normal since the first of the year. It has been four and one-half inches below normal for New York City, and this holds fairly accurate for the vicinity."

Seven counties in New Jersey were ravaged by flames. Rich pine forests in the southern part of the state and homes were burned with an estimated loss of millions of dollars.

COTTAGES DESTROYED

Forest fires raged, also, in Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Maine and Connecticut. Cottages at summer resorts near Portland, Me., were destroyed by a brush fire.

200 HOMES DAMAGED

More than 200 houses were partially destroyed at Oakwood, Staten Island. In Ocean City, N. J., hundreds were made homeless with more than 100 destroyed or damaged heavily. Laney and Bamber, two villages in the pine forest section, were practically wiped off the map. About 50 families in each village were homeless today.

Students from Connecticut Agricultural College aided in fighting a forest fire along the New London-Hartford highway during the night.

For a time the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, N. J., was threatened, but danger was believed past early today.

PENNSYLVANIA HIT

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 5.—(AP.)—Approximately 200 forest fires swept Pennsylvania in the last two days bringing the total for the year to more than 2,000.

The fire status today was:

Clarion district—Twenty fire, all under control or extinguished.

Extreme southwestern tip of state—Thirty fires, all extinguished.

Johnstown district — Twenty fires, all extinguished.

Stroudsburg district—Nine fires, four still burning. One fire believed to have been started by sparks carried across Delaware River from New York state at Lackawaxen. Three fires each burned over total of 1,000 acres.

Blair County—Serious fire still burning near Bellwood.

Dauphin County—Two serious fires between Lykens and Williamstown. One extinguished and one under control.

POLICE FIRE ON MADRID STUDENTS

Workman Killed, 17 Others Hurt in Battle Over Treatment to Unamuno

MADRID, May 5.—(AP.)—A battle between rioting students of the San Carlos Medical College and police today resulted in casualties, unofficially reported as one dead—a workman—and 17 injured. The authorities would give no official information regarding casualties or arrests.

The battle was cobblestones against firearms. After students had raised a red flag over the college and had headed for the street to parade, they were driven back by police.

HURL STONES FROM ROOF

They retreated to the college roof and showered stones upon the police, who fired shots in the air to frighten them.

By mid-afternoon the melee had ended and most of the students, out of ammunition, had left the campus, but the police maintained a heavy guard about the building. All traffic in the region was stopped.

The collegians were rioting over the manner in which police halted a demonstration for Prof. Unamuno Thursday night, when the officers charged with sabers and injured 50 persons.

CABINET MEETS

The same students had rioted in front of the college Saturday, heaving cobblestones at the police and endangering passing streetcars. Street-car traffic past the school was suspended today as a result.

Premier Berenguer and cabinet members hurriedly met to discuss the situation caused by the presence in Madrid of De Unamuno and the resulting student demonstrations. They decided to call a special meeting tonight.

STERN POLICY PLANNED

After the cabinet meeting, the government indicated it would adopt a stern policy to terminate student and political outbreaks.

"We have to stop this," said Gen. Berenguer, "we have no other remedy. We are taking necessary measures."

This was taken to mean that strong forces of police, civil guards and soldiers would be used, if necessary, to suppress disorder.

FACES JURY IN LOTTERY DEATH

Elysses Pridgeon, 30, Negro, of 100 Jacks Run road, went on trial today for the slaying of Emmett Curtis, 27, Negro, of 7343 Idlewild street, alleged slain in a clearing house lottery feud.

Three other defendants will stand trial later and detectives are seeking two others who were indicted by the grand jury. The killing occurred in front of 1437 Hanlon street, on December 23. County detectives charge Pidgeon admitted ownership of a revolver found at the scene but denied participation.

The others awaiting trials are William Lunsford, Carroll Jackson and William Hargraves. William Davis and Leroy Jones are still at large.

Power Quintupled In Rocket Motor

BERLIN, May 5.—(AP.)—Dr. Paul Heylandt, inventor of the so-called rocket motor, today announced that recent improvements to his invention had enabled him to develop 220 horsepower, or more than 30 horsepower per pound weight of the motor, in laboratory tests. This is five times more horsepower per pound than hitherto obtainable, he reported. The inventor believes the new motor can give the rocket car a speed between 125 and 200 miles an hour. He is planning experiments with airplanes.

Inskeep at Romney, to determine his sanity.

INDIA TENSE AT GANDHI ARREST

ARREST DRAMATIC

Monday being Gandhi's day of silence, he had just given the last touches to a letter to the viceroy when his seizure took place. The arrest came before daylight. A squad of armed policemen led by the district magistrate, the superintendent of police and a deputy proceeded to Gandhi's quarters at Karadi from Jalalpur. They went to his bed where he lay fast asleep.

"Do you want me?" he asked. "We have orders to place you under arrest," the magistrate replied.

Gandhi asked only to be permitted to cleanse his teeth before leaving his domicile, a custom to which the Indians attach much importance.

NEWS SPREADS FAST

At daybreak the news began to travel swiftly throughout all India. A government communique announced the arrest, deploring the necessity for such action. The arrest was made under the terms of Article 27 of an ordinance of 1827, which is taken to mean that the Mahatma will be interned rather than imprisoned. By its terms he may be held for trial for an indefinite time without a hearing.

Two of Gandhi's sons are in prison under sentence for Salt Act violations and taking part in the civil disobedience campaign. Mrs. Gandhi, although leading aggressively the women's civil disobedience movement, has not been molested.

The Mahatma's previous arrests occurred in 1907, at which time he served two months, and again in 1922, when he served two years in prison and was set free because of failure of his health.

SOLDIERS MAKE RAIDS

PESHAWAR, Northwest Frontier Province, India, May 5.—(AP.)—Police with military support today raided headquarters of the Peshawar committee of the All-India National Congress, later carrying out similar raids at Naulawan, Bharat and Sabha. All were declared unlawful associations.

Their documents were impounded and seven leading agitators and 10 "notorious ruffian gang-leaders" were arrested without resistance. Troops still occupy parts of the city, but in several quarters shops are open for business, which is proceeding.

The raids were made after publication of correspondence between the committees and the notorious Haji of Tarangzai in the northern provinces. This correspondence indicated that the Haji was raising an army of 100,000 men and advancing with the intention of entering the Peshawar district at the invitation of the committee.

LONDON CONFIDENT

LONDON, May 5. — (AP.) — Wedgwood Benn, secretary of state for India, told questioners in the House of Commons that following the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi, the authorities are in complete control of the situation in India.

Questioned regarding the recent disaffection of Indian troops at Peshawar, Mr. Benn said there had been no sign of such an incident elsewhere. He added that he had no information confirming press reports that armored cars had been driven over Indians lying in the street during the Peshawar trouble.

On the general Indian situation, he said, "the policy of the government to invite a conference of Indian leaders stands despite everything that has happened."

CONVICTS START NEW TUNNEL

COLUMBUS, O., May 5.—(INS.)—Discovering the start of an underground tunnel from the convicts' stockade toward an outside wall, officials at Ohio State Penitentiary today made extraordinary precautions to preclude any attempted escape of prisoners.

The tunnel had been started from an unoccupied tent in the bardbed-wire stockade. A hole about two feet long had been tunneled. Two shovels also were discovered.

It was while the 600 convicts, who have been confined recently in the stockade, were lined up outside during a check-up of the prisoners that the discovery of the started tunnel was made.

One convict was near death today and another was suffering from cuts on the face as the result of fresh disturbances among rebellious Ohio Penitentiary convicts. They were beaten by other convicts.

The opinion, delivered by Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, is expected to give the government a powerful weapon in suppressing the manufacture of home brew. TEST CASE DECISION

The double prosecution test case which the court agreed to hear grew out of the arrest of Anthony La Franca, of New Orleans. Convicted under the prohibition law, he later was prosecuted under the Internal Revenue Act for failure to pay taxes imposed on retail liquor dealers. The Court of Appeals decided against the government.

The dry transfer bill is now due for early consideration in the Senate.

HOOVER LETTER CONSIDERED

This is the first of the Hoover Law enforcement measures to get to the Senate. Republican leaders believe it is likely to be the only one to become law at this session.

The recent letter of President Hoover urging congress to enact his program into law at this session was before the Judiciary Committee at today's session.

Upon reconsideration, the committee decided to provide for the transfer of all civil service employees engaged in enforcement work now in the Treasury, to the Justice Department.

Previously, it had voted to permet Attorney General Mitchell to pick an entirely new staff. The Justice Department said the transfer of the employes was necessary.

Some committee members reserved the right to oppose in the Senate the proposal for dual control by the Treasury and Justice Departments over industrial alcohol permits. This provision in the House bill was left unchanged.

LINDY REGRETS RADIO MIXUP

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP.)—Tentative arrangements to broadcast an address of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh fell through last night because, the Colonel explained, he had known nothing about such plans.

About three hours after the time set for the broadcast, Col. Lindbergh telephoned the Associated Press that he had not been notified of the plans for the broadcast and that he regretted that "a lot of people had to be kept waiting for something that didn't happen."

Representatives of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, which is staging the show, reached the Colonel by telephone last night and announced that he said he expected to visit the show some time this week but would prefer not to speak.

NAVAL PACT UP WEDNESDAY

Chairman Hale, of the latter committee, had planned to begin hearings today, with Secretary Adams as the first witness, but decided to postpone the session because he felt that Stimson, as head of the American delegation, should be first in giving the Senate his views on the treaty.

The Foreign Relations Committee has not decided as to what witnesses will be called, leaving the settlement of questions of procedure to its meeting on Wednesday. Two of the American delegates, Senators Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, and Robinson, (Dem.), of Arkansas, are members of the committee.

The former jurist's first murder trial in Austin, Tex., where the young woman was killed, resulted in a hung jury. A change of venue brought the case to Dallas.

Married, and a father, Brady is alleged to have slain Miss Highsmith because she associated with other men. At the previous trial defense attorneys contended the ex-judge was not responsible for his actions, because of continued and excessive drinking.

Judge Insists Angry Pair Must Share Same Home

DETROIT, May 5.—(AP.)—William De Golia, having been sued for divorce, appropriated both of the bedrooms and insisted on pulling a dining room table in half during a subsequent division of the De Golia household goods.

What made his wife, Winifred, mad, was that he refused to leave the house after doing these things. She haled him into Judge Joseph A. Moynihan's court on a petition to eject.

The judge, after listening to the complaints, ordered the table put back together and instructed De Golia to relinquish one of the bedrooms, but he denied the ejection petition. He said:

"It shouldn't be a hardship, under the circumstances, for both to live in one house. I have heard of a lot of husbands who were almost never seen around home."

Girl, 23, Starts on Lone Flight to Australia

CROYDON, England, May 5.—(AP.)—Amy Johnson, 23, English aviatrix, whose longest flight has been only 299 miles, started at 8:40 a. m. today in a tiny Moth plane on a lone flight of 22,000 miles to Australia and return.

Her plane is named the "Jason," after the Grecian hero who sought the golden fleece. In it the golden-haired miss, who is a member of the London Aeroplane Club, hopes to best the record of Bert Hinkler, who flew to Australia in 15 days.

Her plane carries no radio, and she will depend upon telegrams to keep in touch with home. She carried a change of dress and other traveling equipment in a light bag behind the cockpit. Her chief worry at the start, she said, was that the flight had been delayed until the monsoon season had begun over the Indian Ocean, making it necessary for her to fly right across their track.

The aviatrix is the only woman in Great Britain to whom the air ministry has granted a ground engineer's license. Her father, J. W. Johnson, of Hull, went to Croydon to bid her farewell. He said there was no need for any anxiety about her trip.

NEW SUPPORT PLEDGED

"... governor I advocated the resolution to place the question of adjusted compensation for former service men before the people. If elected governor this time, I will support such a plan again."

Pinchot referred to a resolution for a constitutional amendment providing for a soldiers' bonus which was passed by the 1929 Legislature but was never submitted to the electorate because of a court ruling that new proposals for amending the state constitution only could be voted on every five years. The soldiers' compensation plan was proposed too soon after a previous question was submitted and was discarded, never having been taken up since.

ROUSING RECEPTION

Dropping the top of his open touring car, the former governor spoke from the tonneau at Apollo, Vandergrift and Leechburg. At Apollo he was met by Charles F. Armstrong, his running mate as candidate for the nomination for lieutenant governor. Armstrong's home is in Leechburg. He resigned as postmaster to run with Pinchot. Both were given a rousing reception here.

From Leechburg, the candidate came to Kittanning for a meeting at Armstrong County courthouse. Later in the day Pinchot will return to Pittsburgh to make a radio address from station KDKA.

RADIO MERGER BAN DENIED

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP.)—The Department of Justice will not interfere with the meeting of stockholders of the Radio Corporation of America, General Electric and Westinghouse Electric Corporation called for tomorrow to act on the proposed unification of radio facilities of the companies.

John Lord O'Brian, assistant to Attorney General Mitchell, announced this today—saying reports were being circulated in New York that a petition asking for a restraining order to prevent action toward the merger would be filed by the department. O'Brian said:

"It is well known that the department is making a general investigation into charges that radio patent holdings violate the anti-trust laws. That matter is still being studied by the department and, of course, I cannot discuss it."

REPLACE POWER BOARD—WILBUR

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP.)—Secretary Wilbur went on record again today for an independent agency to supplant the Federal Power Commission, now composed of the secretaries of war, agriculture and, interior ex-officio.

Approving the Parker bill, which would set up an independent commission, Wilbur said before the House Interstate Commerce Committee that the present commission could not give sufficient time to the work.

He urged that in any reorganization the commission be given control over power sites.

Under the Parker bill, which, Wilbur said, was drafted along the lines recommended by President Hoover in his annual message to Congress, all interstate power rates would be fixed by the commission.

Armour President Sees Trade Upturn

CHICAGO, May 5.—P. Edson White, president of Armour & Co., is optimistic toward the future of American business. He stated that he had discussed the immediate outlook with various men in whom he has great faith, and finds that there is a general feeling that conditions have greatly improved in the past month and that the second quarter will show a marked improvement over the first.

The natural and normal condition in this country is one of prosperity, and conditions are rapidly approaching normal, Mr. White concluded.

HOME DISTRICTS SHOW GAIN

sons employed in offices and mills are building homes on the surrounding hills. Swissvale profited by the apparent exodus from the steel town with a population of 14,659, against 17,806 in 1920.

Some of the townships which show an apparent decrease in the present census have increased in population per square mile, the falling off in the returns being due to the fact that portions of several townships were annexed during the last 10 years to adjoining boroughs of the city.

Neighbors' Guns Saves Family In Fire

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., May 5.—(AP.)—Six children were rescued from their burning home in Plymouth, near Pittston, early today by neighbors who discovered a blaze, awakened and profaned the family at Pittston. The flames destroyed a double house on Vine street. The blaze was on the lower floor of the building and four children were rescued with difficulty. Mrs. E. S. Bostock suffered painful burns in saving a crippled son. The one side of the house was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Bostock and four children, and the other side by Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Ferenzi.

POSSE PURSUES 2 ATTACKERS

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., May 5.—(AP.)—Two Negroes sought for attacking Miss Elizabeth Jane Powell, prominent Nash County girl, and shooting her young man companion, today were sought by an armed posse of several hundred men with bloodhounds.

Miss Powell was attacked late Saturday night. She and Frank Crickmore were riding when two Negroes approached their automobile and asked for a smoke.

Before Crickmore could reply one of the Negroes placed a shotgun against the side of his neck and fired. The discharge tore away his larynx. Physicians say he will never talk again.

Miss Powell said the Negroes dragged Crickmore from the car, got into the automobile and drove off with her and threatened to kill her if she gave an alarm.

Crickmore dangerously wounded, staggered to his home. Both he and Miss Powell are in a hospital.

Shortly after the posse was formed, Joe Lee, aged Negro, was found beaten to death at his home near the scene of the attack, and Buck Hilliard, another Negro, who was with Lee, was beaten into unconsciousness.

When Hilliard recovered, he told officers two Negroes had attacked them, killing Lee with an ax.

3,000 EXPERTS STUDY MIND DISEASES

Psychiatrists of World Are Gathering for First of International Conferences

By LEONARDO BACON
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The mental state of the world is to be the subject of a medical consultation to be attended by 3,000 psychiatrists, mental hygiene experts and physicians in Washington this week, for the first time in history those concerned with the health of the mind hold an international congress.

Cold unemotional figures show that our collective and individual mental health is worthy of considerable concern.

Today about half of all the persons in hospitals in this country are there, not because of physical disease, but because of mental trouble. More hospital beds are being filled by new patients with mental disorders than by sufferers from all other sorts of sickness put together.

Visualize America in 1970. Of its population of 150,000,000, some 800,000 will be confined to hospitals because of abnormal mental condition. In the "insane asylums" of 1880 there were only 63 per 100,000 of the population; in 1970 there will be 655 per 100,000. The great economic drain of mental disease will have increased a thousand per cent in a century.

To the suffering of patients and families, the disrupted home lives, the turmoil of abnormal living add the financial burden of caring for these thousands of unfortunates and the problem becomes plainly one worthy of greatest scientific study. If through study and research, specialists can reduce mental disease as they have checked epidemics the cost of the effort will bear bountiful dividends.

Behind the growing world-wide appreciation that the insane are sick, not morally warped, there lies a human story. The mental hygiene movement was launched by one man, Clifford W. Beers, who after recovering from the experience of a mental disorder that took him into insane asylums as a patient, resolved to convince the scientific and lay world that those mentally disordered should be treated as sick persons, not criminals. His baring autobiography of his experiences "The Mind That Found Itself" began 25 years ago a revolution that with this first international congress of mental hygiene becomes worldwide. Mr. Beers is secretary general of the Congress.

NAVY BASE FIRE LOSS $500,000

NORFOLK, Va., May 5.—(AP.)—Fire that raged over Pier 7 of the Hampton Roads naval base last night was brought under control shortly before 3 a. m. with an estimated damage of approximately $500,000, according to Capt. W. H. Allen, public works officer of the base.

Two government boats, the Catawba and Keywayden, and two oil barges lying alongside were partially destroyed. Several divisions of the Norfolk Fire Department eight miles away were called to help government fire-fighters combat the blaze that was discovered shortly after 10 o'clock.

Still other ships docked at the pier were cut loose, and allowed to drift out into the roads to escape the blaze. Pier 7 was recently reconditioned and renovated for docking the giant airplane carriers, Lexington and Saratoga, at a cost of $250,000.

MOUNTAIN HIKE KILLS WOMAN

ONTARIO, Cal., May 5.—(AP.)—A long mountain hike through deep snow has proved fatal to Mrs. Mildred Percy, former head of the Chicago Child Welfare League, and a student in a Pasadena school of progressive education.

Mrs. Percy died of exposure yesterday after being rescued, nearly exhausted, from snow drifts between the Ice House Canyon resort and Kelly's Camp, five miles deeper in the mountains.

Saying she was determined to make the trip, the woman left the Ice House resort attired in light clothing, despite the warnings of attendants. Mr. and Mrs. H. Turner, of Pasadena, overtook her after she had gone three miles. Although she protested, Mrs. Percy started to return with the couple, collapsed after walking another mile, and was dead when carried to the camp on a stretcher.

She leaves two children in Pasadena; her estranged husband, Carl Percy, of Oakland, Cal., and her father, a Mr. Powhinson, 70, Fifth avenue, New York City.

CRIME BLAMED ON FAST LIVING

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 5.—(Universal)—Automobiles and divorces, coffee and tobacco are contributing factors causing an increase in crime, according to Prof. Roland M. Harper, of the University of Georgia, in the Eugenics Magazine, released today.

Prof. Harper made a study of social trends of Prince Edward Island, Canada, and contrasted them with those in the United States.

He found little crime and almost no divorces in Prince Edward Island, but a great simplicity of life. He said:

"Our present crime wave and high and rapidly increasing divorce rate are probably due in large measure to too much pleasure-seeking and indulgence in luxuries, although, of course, the problem is a complex one.

"In the matter of automobiles, there seems to be a fairly close correlation between them and divorce. In the course of a year it costs about as much to own and operate an automobile as to feed, clothe and educate a child; so an automobile used mainly for pleasure generally means one child less in the family, and smaller families mean more divorces.

"In this country the annual per capita consumption of tobacco has increased from about six pounds in 1900 to nine in 1920. Nearly every smoker drinks coffee, and the per capita consumption of coffee and sugar have both increased about 50 per cent in the last 20 years.

"All this is probably partly responsible for the increase of crime and divorce, although perhaps few smokers would concede that. Some very estimable gentlemen, indeed, use tobacco, but at the same time it can hardly be disputed that the great majority of criminals also do."

WOMEN OPPOSE LEAGUE COURT

OSHKOSH, Wis., May 5.—(Universal)—Leading representatives of Wisconsin's clubwomen have expressed themselves in unreserved opposition to America's adherence to the World Court of the League of Nations and to all other entangling international alliances.

Opinion at the sixteenth annual convention of the sixth district of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs in session here was largely crystallized by a stirring address made by H. Ralph Burton, international lawyer of Washington.

Commenting unofficially on the address, Mrs. Helen K. Stuart, president of the sixth district, said today:

"The World Court and the League of Nations may be a great thing some day, but the time is not ripe for America's entry. We can be a greater asset to world peace if we steer clear of international alliances at this time."

Mr. Burton, in his speech, urged not only naval parity with Great Britain, but naval parity with the world. He declared:

"The Council of the League of Nations is today the most powerful single organization since the great Triumvirate of Rome, and the covenant of the League of Nations is in direct conflict with the policies of the Kellogg peace pact."

LEHMAN TALKS ON PRISON REFORM

New York's Acting Governor Discusses Situation In Institutions of State

By FRANCIS J. TIETSORT.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 5.—Acting Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, banker, sociologist and philanthropist, who has made a business man's detailed study of the complex prison situation in New York state, discussed frankly today the pressing problems of prison administration.

The problems have involved suppression of riots and plots among the overcrowded thousands of felons in the commonwealth's antiquated penal plants.

For two hours the lieutenant-governor, who is in accord with Gov. Roosevelt on the speedy completion of the state's remedial program, analyzed for the Hearst newspapers the gravest crisis which has arisen since New York has had penitentiaries worthy of the name.

EXPERT ON PENOLOGY

Lieut.-Gov. Lehman, wealthiest office holder in the history of the state, who sacrificed business for public service and who is rated by political leaders of both parties as a practical expert on penal affairs, declared:

"No problem has lately so engaged the attention of the government, state and of our people as that of prison administration and the care of prison inmates.

"Differing viewpoints have developed as to handling the prison situation. One side assumes severity should be used in the treatment of prisoners, the other says it is wrong to use severity, or even firmness, and that the problem may be solved only through so-called prison reform.

"Both viewpoints to me are untenable. I am certain there is an intelligent medium between brutality and privileges.

CROWDING IS PROBLEM

"We are faced with the problem of herding more than 7,000 prisoners into four institutions, and at the same time exerting a corrective influence upon these human beings filed away in little cells. The power and authority of the state can undoubtedly be more readily asserted through an increased number of guards, receiving better pay and more scientific training.

"There are three fundamental conditions within the prison that, in my opinion, affect the health and well-being of the prisoners—overcrowding, inadequate food and clothing, and enforced idleness.

"All these factors are being corrected as rapidly as possible. The condition of overcrowding is, of course, of long standing and will take a long time to correct."

CADETS STUDY ON GUN RANGE

BALTIMORE, May 5.—(AP)—Cadets from the United States Military Academy at West Point, members of the first class, arrived yesterday at Aberdeen Proving Grounds for observation and instruction. The Cadets left West Point by special train at noon, arriving at the grounds four hours later. There are 243 in the group.

They will receive instruction in ordinance and will watch the firing of all classes of field and heavy artillery, including 14 and 16-inch coast defense guns. Army bombing planes will drop shots and anti-aircraft guns will be fired at targets flown at various heights.

Tomorrow the Cadets will visit the Frankford Arsenal at Philadelphia and study the manufacture of small arms ammunition, fuses for artillery shells and fire-control equipment.

Girl Companion's Bullet Kills Man

UTICA, O., May 5.—(AP)—John Seubert, 42, of Columbus, was killed late yesterday while on an outing near here, by a bullet from a target rifle of his girl companion. Sheriff Festus Hoover and Coroner John Thompson said the information indicated the rifle was discharged accidentally. Edward Seubert corroborated the story that Miss Ruth Shattie, who was having target practice, shot his brother accidentally.

Robbers Steal Safe, $1,000 From Store

ABERDEEN, Md., May 5.—(AP.)—Robbers yesterday backed a truck to the rear door of the J. W. Crook Company a chain store, and drove away with the safe weighing 350 pounds and containing $1,000 in cash.

The beading around the glass in the rear door of the store was removed by the robbers who reached through the opening, released the bars and took the door off its hinges.

Flier Hurt When Glider Crashes

GLIDER VICTIM RECOVERING

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 5.—(AP)—Jack Barstow, holder of an unofficial worlds gliding record, was resting easily at a hospital here recovering from injuries suffered Saturday night when his sail plane was hurled to the ground by a gust of wind.

Physicians said the 24-year-old San Diego glider pilot would be in bed two months and that he would be forced to use crutches for perhaps another two months. Barstow is suffering from a broken vertebra and superficial cuts.

He had been gliding off Point Loma, near here, for approximately eight hours in an attempt to officially break the world's record for motorless flight, when the mishap occurred.

William Van Dusen, official observer of the flight, said a strong wind was blowing when the accident occurred at 6:30 p. m. Barstow came by a group of watchers at an altitude of about 800 feet. He veered sharply toward the bystanders and then swung his craft quickly away again, disappearing over a small hill where he crashed in a canyon.

PROGRESS SEEN BY BANKER

OLD POINT COMFORT, Va., May 5.—(AP.)—Forward movement of business in an orderly manner and without credit stringency was visualized today by John G. Lonsdale of St. Louis, president of the American Bankers' Association, at the spring meeting of the association's executive council.

Mr. Lonsdale expressed the belief that recovery was in progress slow in some lines and in some sections faster than others, and that progressive adjustment of production to current consumption is now well under way. He said:

"It is natural in making estimates of the business situation that we compare the first three months of 1930 with those of 1929. Many fail to realize, however, that this does not do justice to the current situation, as in the first quarter of 1929 we experienced a new high level for the general run of business and record figures for many of our most important industries and trades. If we keep in mind 1928 and earlier years, we have cause for congratulation that the general level of business is favorable in comparison with them.

"Our banking position is favorable to support fully all conservative demands for credit. Rates have eased considerably and a diffusion of credit into the smaller centers is beginning to be noticeable."

RECORD FLIGHT BY AIR CHIEF

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP.)—A conference in Dayton, Ohio, yesterday did not keep Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of Air Corps, from spending the afternoon in Washington.

Accompanied by Capt. Ira Eaker, he left here by plane at 6:15 o'clock and arrived at 9:30 o'clock at Wright Field, Dayton. After a 25-minute conference with Brig. Gen. B. A. Foulois, commandant of the station, the pair boarded another plane and landed at Bolling Field at 12:40 o'clock. The entire trip, estimated at 800 miles air distance, took but six hours.

Two days ago the flying general flew from Fargo, N. D., a 1,300-mile journey, in 7 hours and 20 minutes.

New Lights Asked For Carson Street

South Side Businessmen's Association has petitioned city council to change the type of lighting on East Carson street between the Smithfield street bridge and the city line. One-hundred and fifty lamps of 1,000 watt capacity are asked to replace the 84 lamps now used. The change would add $5,000 per year to the cost of lighting the thoroughfare.

BODY OF RAIDER SOUGHT, 3 DIE

TOLEDO, O., May 5.—(AP.)—The waters of Maumee Bay were searched today for the third of three coast guardsmen believed to have perished in a storm while cruising the island section of this corner of Lake Erie for rum runners last Thursday.

Two bodies found yesterday were tentatively identified as those of Capt. Gardner D. Young, in charge of Coast Guard cutter CG 173, and Master Mechanics Mate Pratt. Chief Motor Machinist Hay, who left the cutter with Capt. Young and Pratt to cruise about in a speedboat, was still missing today.

The trio left the CG 173 in charge of Boatswain Mike Bulleck and ordered him to remain three miles northwest of the Detroit harbor light. This section of the lake was swept by a storm Thursday and Friday night, and when the cruising party failed to return Bulleck reported them missing Saturday.

The body believed to be that of Young was found by Coastguardsmen a few hours after a group of Toledoans on a sail boat found that of Pratt. The bodies were about three miles apart and both were floating in life belts.

Captain Young was under indictment on a charge of shooting with intent to kill Rutherford Hayes, of Port Clinton, O., during the search of a yacht August 29, 1929.

The caravan left Mt. Carmel with representatives from Pottsville, Schuylkill Haven, St. Clair, Orwigsburg, Shamokin, Sunbury, Nanticoke and Scranton, and were escorted by state highway patrol to Norristown, where another police escort conducted the group to this city.

PRINCE OPENS ART EXPO

VENICE, Italy, May 5.—(AP.)—Escorted by a colorful flotilla of gondolas flying the flags of Italy and the Venetian Republic, the Duke of Bergamo, representing King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, yesterday inaugurated the seventeenth biennial contemporary art exposition here.

United States Ambassador John W. Garrett took part in the gondola pageant, and later formally opened the American pavilion, the first permanent home in Europe for the work of United States artists.

The American pavilion, designed by Delano and Aldrich, New York architects, is a chaste example of Georgian architecture, its four central Doric columns reminiscent of many a New England church or meeting house. Its low, restful line suggests Mount Vernon. It is of pink brick, with trimmings of flawless Istrian marble and light gray stone, with a low spherical dome over the entrance hall, where the statuary is grouped.

Walter L. Clark, president and founder of the Grand Central Art Galleries in New York, did the honors, welcoming the ambassador and the rest of the distinguished company. The visitors warmly praised the United States contribution to the outstanding art exhibition of Italy's summer season.

'Frosty' Dambach Makes Fatal 'Chute Leap

CLEVELAND, O., May 5.—(AP.)—George "Frosty" Dambach took his one hundred and seventy-third parachute leap yesterday.

Jumping as an "added attraction" for a baseball crowd, Dambach saw his 'chute disabled as it struck a strut and fought in vain to pull it open as he shot toward the ground. It partly opened, but too late, and when spectators reached his shattered body the silken folds had settled over it.

NEW KIND OF POLICY INSURES YOUR INCOME

Perfect Protection, Originated by Reliance Life Insurance Company of Pittsburgh, Makes Family Income Sure Whether You Live or Die.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 28.—Men who have always worried less about losing their lives than they have about losing their incomes, will be interested in knowing of a new kind of insurance policy, called Perfect Protection, originated by Reliance Life of Pittsburgh, under which you don't have to die to win. This is proved by the fact that, since its origination, living Perfect Protection policyholders have received $7,000,000 more than has been paid on death claims.

Perfect Protection replaces your pay check during illness or injury, whether permanent or only temporary; whether wholly or only partially disabling. It pays you an old-age retirement fund. It assures the education of your children. It pays your household expenses. It pays off the mortgage. It supplies money to tide you over temporary financial emergencies. It pays your widow a monthly income no matter how long she lives. It provides cash for doing things you want to do while you live. It provides money for your family when they'll need it most . . . after you are gone.

This Perfect Protection policy pays thousands of dollars, day in and day out, to policyholders who would not receive such benefits under any other form of life insurance. Backed by an institution having nearly $500,000,000 insurance in force and assets of over $62,000,000, it is the last word in insurance security.

Health Better Than Riches

"Before I was married, my mother and sister and I did all the farming work on a 64-acre farm for eleven years. I married a farmer and now in addition to my housework and the care of my children I help him with the outside work on our farm. After my last child was born, I began to suffer as many women do. Our family doctor gave me medicine but no results. One day he told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did and now I am a new woman and I know that good health is better than riches."—Mrs. Clyde I. Sherman, R. #1, Lickdale, Pennsylvania.

SCREEN AND STAGE REFLECTIONS FROM HOLLYWOOD AND PITTSBURGH

Janet Gaynor Stays Away From Studio; Seeks Movie Elysium

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 5.

PERHAPS IT MAY be of interest to know that since Janet Gaynor returned from her Honolulu jaunt, she hasn't been near the Fox studio. From what I gather, Janet is making a bid for better and stronger stories and not flaunting temperament 'atall. But better and stronger stories represent a celluloid Elysium.

Remember Wanda Hawley the blond star who later traipse for Famous? Miss Hawley leaves shortly for South America. Silent pictures are still popular in that part of the world. Likewise Wanda's pictures, old though they may be. The personal appearance tour is by request.

Janet Gaynor

Hedda Hopper is playing Edward Everett Horton's Missus in Ann Harding's new outloud "Holiday," direction E. H. Griffith. Hedda reckons when she finishes this flick she'll hop (first syllable of her last moniker) off in a 'plane New Yorkwards, she may sojourn in Manhattan only a few days, but she sure hankers for a glimpse of the lil' town. Bless it.

TIBBETT AGAIN

'Round the middle of May, Laurence Tibbett returns to the colony from his concert tour. He will make two vocalloids for M. G. M. during the five months he intends remaining in Hollywood. No definite story selection has been made. There's still talk of "Monte Cristo." "Volga Boatman" and umpty ump others. Mrs. Tibbett and the twins (boys) are here now.

Laurence Tibbett

Frederick March and his wife Florence Eldridge expect to entrain for New York tomorrow eve. The Marches, incidentally, have joined the Laguna Beach colony which number among its membership, E. H. Griffith and Michael Curtiz.

WHISPERS

Sh-h-h-h. Whispers Billie Burke (Mrs. Florenz Ziegfeld) espied on the Famous Players lot in make-up. It has been many years since Billie Burke made celluloiders. Sleuthing revealed she was being tested for the gay mother role in "Dancing Mothers," a play by Edmund Goulding and Edgar Selwyn. Mr. Goulding will megaphone.

Since Harold Lloyd's kitchen was demolished by fire, the couple with daughter Gloria have been cottage-ing at the Ambassador. One must eat, palatial mansion notwithstanding.

Jack Pickford is very much in evidence on Mary's "Forever Yours" set. Wouldn't be 'atall surprised to see Jack direct his sister one of these days.

GILLETTE, HAMPDEN IN BILLS HERE TONIGHT

Tonight, after an absence of a dozen years, William Gillette will appear in the Nixon in "Sherlock Holmes," the play in which he will say farewell to the footlights forever. There will be but one matinee and that on Saturday. This play ends the Nixon's season.

In the Shubert-Alvin tonight Walter Hampden opens his engagement of one week with "Richelieu," which will be given also Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings. Wednesday matinee and night and Saturday night "Caponsacchi" will be presented. "Hamlet" has been chosen for the Saturday matinee performance.

When the George Sharp Players in the Pitt open tonight in "After Dark," they will be seen in a play by Dion Boucicault, one of the most prolific playwrights of another generation, who made the acting version of "Rip Van Winkle" for Joseph Jefferson. Edith Ki. and Weldin Heyburn will play the romantic leads.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

That the World Almanac lists the murder of Albert Snyder by his wife, Ruth, and her lover, Judd Gray, among the "memorable dates" of 1927, listing that murder with Lindbergh's flight to Paree.

That a deaf and dumb person can cuss faster than you!

That the first woman to be executed in New York (1817) later was found to be innocent, another woman confessing her guilt.

That in Chicago, the so-called "Windy City," the more fashionable optometrists charge a $ to remove the cinder from your orb.

That the Police Gazette, long considered a mag for the lower-brows, prints the words "hell" and "damn" as "h——l" and "d——n."

That a municipal, railroad, insurance or banking corporation cannot become bankrupt according to a Federal statute.

That in the Bronx County Clerk's Office Charles McManus is listed as the owner of the N. Y. Yankees, when anybody'll lay you one thousand smackers to five cents that Col. Jacob Ruppert is.

That S. America's westernmost town is farther east than N. Y. C.

That the stove in which coal was first burned and the log which started the fire may be seen at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., according to a peasant from the town that bred so many good playwrights.

That Mrs. Hoover's mail is carried sans postage.

That among other N. Y. Police slanguage is "he's a hairy" for "he's a hard-boiled cop," and that they never refer to them (official ruling) as nightsticks or clubs. They are "batons."

That Richard Harding Davis was fired from the Phila. Record for writing a story while wearing gray silk gloves!

And when the late Jim Chambers, that rag's editor, aired him, Davis retorted: "I can write a better story with boxing gloves on than any other member of your staff can do bare-handed."

That there are 600 languages in Africa.

That the reason Will Osborne, Rudy Vallee's rival, went to Vallee's night club recently was that Vallee had threatened to punch Osborne's snoot the first time they met. Nothing happened, however.

That the real name of the Monte Carlo Casino in Yurrup is "The Society of Baths of Monaco."

That Flag Day is said to have been originated by Benjamin Altheimer, the Jewish-German-born charitarian.

That Broadway calls counterfeit people (who like you for what you can do for them) "chiselers." So a reader suggests that we call people who curry favor with us "Winchiselers."

That a wag has a new name for the President Theater where a new off-color play just opened. He calls it the Vice-President.

That the new two-cent stamps commemorating the Massachusetts tercentenary contain the likeness of a nood lady!
But they ban certain books in that State.

That in the British Navy every officer and sailor must either be clean shaven or sports a full grown beard.

That the Western Electric, which has a pension system, is now reluctant to hire men over 40.

That Alice Jones Rhinelander used to be invited to the dances in New Rochelle by the locals until they learned she wasn't Spanish.

That Childs employs a pretty girl of 19 who removes cans of garbage daily. She wears overalls and it is not likely that it is a publicity stunt, because the sweet-looker runs away from reporters.

That Cal Coolidge's double in New York City is Jay Edwards, the cashier at the Thomas Edison offices on Forty-second St.

That wood used in the manufacture of tennis racquets needs at least five years' seasoning. Wood for pianos needs 40 years.

That Napoleon was responsible for the notion of canning foods. He offered a prize to anyone inventing something that would preserve vegetables so that his sailors, going on long voyages, might have fresh vegetables. The man who invented the tin was named Appert.

That if the sun went "out" every drop of moisture in the air would turn into snow and ice within two days, and the temperature would fall to something like 300 degrees Fahrenheit below zero.

That the reason women have voices of a higher pitch than men is that their vocal cords are a third shorter.

That in Australia the weekly half-holiday is compulsory.

That "Pickwick Paper" are of no special value unless dated 1837 and in clean condition.

That in Paris there is a certain expensive Bohemian restaurant where diners may cook and prepare their own meals.

That the saying, "You can fool some of the people all of the time, etc.," was not originated by P. T. Barnum or Abe Lincoln.

That over the Panama Canal the sun rises in the Pacific and sets in the Atlantic ! ! !

That we just recalled why Ethel Barrymore, who has been baritoning us lately, is sore. She has a darn good reason to be. During the premiere of the play "Holiday," which starred Hope Williams, Miss Barrymore sat in a front loge and detracted attention from the stage by waving to friends in the orchestra and otherwise showing off.

In a column we further reported: "The cast is good, particularly fine being Hope Williams' performance, which, however, wasn't as good as the performance given by Ethel Barrymore in a stage box."

Heroine

Edith King has the role of the heroine in "After Dark," playing in the Pitt this week.

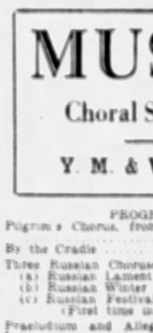
The "Y" Choral Society of the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association gave their closing concert last night in the "Y" auditorium. Harvey Gaul directed a program of excellence, and there was a soloist of wide repute, Ruth Breton, violinist.



J. Fred Lissfelt

Two novelties of importance were the keystone of the program. Leo Ornstein's three Russian choruses are closely akin to folk tunes, with colorful choral scoring, music hardly to be associated with the revolutionary of a decade ago. Harvey Gaul's new cantata, heard here for the first time, is built on a story of the early settlers, this side of the Alleghenies. It has the composer's usual fluant melodic line, and for the choruses, more pictorial writing than usual. The choral club did its best work in both these works, especially in the "Russian Winter" and the climax of the cantata.

The Hebrew songs comprising the rest of the choral offerings were mostly traditional hymns which we hear regularly from this club, and which they should be proud to preserve. They sing the tragedies and comedies of the Hebrews, and often transplant us to the days of bondage and the temple. Soloists in the choral numbers were Rylvia Rappaport, Jeannette Clasky, Anne Zimmet, Edith Canter Lazear, Esther Cohen, Joseph Gerson, Emanuel Breakstone, Saul Franklin. Mrs. A. L. Balter played the accompaniments.

Ruth Breton played two groups of lighter violin music, and let flow cascades of rich tone from her bow and strings. This violinist made a brilliant appearance with our orchestra last season, but without the background of that orchestra one can notice that Miss Breton in her enthusiasm is wont to pay less attention to details of clarity and intoneation. It was not as highly artistic playing as we had expected. Betty Baker played whirlwind accompaniments for Miss Breton.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

MARION DAVIES' FILM AND RADIO DISPLAY IN HARRIS

By MILDRED FILLMORE

"Not So Dumb," Marion Davies' latest starring picture, is current in the Harris. It all has to do with a heroine, who is always doing the wrong thing. She means well, but she is a tactless sort. She interferes in love and in business and almost wrecks the future career of her own special boy friend.

One of the characters is a movie scenarist who makes love in subtitle langauge. Another is a butler, who is a reformed ex-convict—reformed until his eyes spot a string of valuable pearls. Much of the action takes place at a house party.

The production is a farce comedy. It has numerous laughs. King Vidor was the director. Supporting players include Elliott Nugent, Raymond Hackett and Sally Starr.

The stage is devoted entirely to Francill, a gentleman who demonstrates some of the possibilities of radio. By remote control he sends a miniature battleship maneuvering all over the stage. Later, by the same method, he milks a cow.

Name Honor Pupils At Avalon High

Honors of the graduating class of Avalon High school have been awarded to Christina Hoffman, Jack England, Louise Kornman and Robert Smith, in the order named. They will speak at the commencement exercises to be held in the High School Auditorium June 5. Baccalaureate services will be held Sunday June 1, in the Trinity Lutheran Church, Avalon, with the Rev. Dr. John B. Magee as the speaker.

CROOK PLAY FEATURES SHERIDAN SQUARE MOVIE BILL

The story of a very nice little girl-crook who falls in love with a very nice little boy-crook, how they "went straight" and the hard time they had doing it is told in a sparkling talkie at the Sheridan Square. "Alias French Gertie," the headliner, is our friend Bebe Daniels, and her boy friend is little Ben Lyon.

How Gertie keeps Ben from going back to the old life, despite his yen for it, makes a good picture. It has lots of laughs and lots of action. Gertie finally wins the boy friend, but has to shoot him to do it.

The picture is well done, both artisticaly and mechanically. A cartoon novelty, a good comedy and a news reel complete the bill.

CANAL TO BOOM U. S. TRADE

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(Universal.) — America's expanding trade will receive a great stimulus in the building of the Nicaraguan canal is the belief of Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, Nicaraguan minister to the United States.

The projected canal, which will cut a new waterway between the Atlantic and the Pacific, will bring this nation and Central American republics into closer bonds of friendship and good will, Dr. Sacasa declared.

In his address last night broadcast over the Columbia network, Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Dem.), of Montana, introduced the minister to the radio audience.

Nicaragua is giving every aid to the projected canal Dr. Sacasa said. He predicted that if the engineering survey now proceeding under authorization of Congress results in a favorable report, President Hoover and the Congress will approve the construction of the canal. He said:

"With peace and constitutional order established through the co-operation of your secretary of state, Henry L. Stimson, and Gen. Frank R. McCoy, the country has now a stable government with President Moncada at its helm."

CHICAGO CURBS BANNED FILMS

CHICAGO, May 5.—(AP.)—Exhibition of motion pictures under injunction—infallible magnet for capacity crowds—is a thing of the past in Chicago as the result of an Appellate Court decision.

A recent film had been ordered off the screen by police, but the theater obtained an injunction in Circuit Court against police interference. The city appealed and the Appellate Court ruled that the purpose of an injunction is to protect property rights, but that property rights are not involved in the showing of a motion picture. The films are shown, the court held, under a privilege, the ordinary permit. The proper relief, according to the decision, is in a mandamus to force the censor board to grant a permit.

CHICKIE By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER LXXVII.

Chickie walked up the street, stopping at the window of a pawn shop, staring vacantly at ponderous old watch chains; immense jade rings. A sturdy, black-haired man with an unctuous face opened the show case, putting a tray of bracelets directly under her gaze. He smiled at her.

She turned sharply, retracing her steps. She wondered bleakly where she was going. She sat down in the park. Quiet here in the tranquil sun.

Terror was driving her, disgrace, the awful shame of bowing before Jonathan's eyes. Jonathan—why it would kill him, giant that he was—

She hadn't dared to think of this. She had hoped. She had sent the telegrams. And he would get them. He would come!

They would be married. Not sweet to think about. She had cried at night, fancying the quiet in his eyes when he stood somewhere before another and gave the promises. Yet she had clung to this hope with the passion of despair.

Now this was gone. He wouldn't come—he couldn't.

It seemed to her that her heart was laid open—and a club beat it. She said to herself, pressing her hands against her throat, trying to rub away the hotness; the aching suffocation—"I have to think—I'll have to decide—"

She didn't though. She wondered in a kind of frenzy how long it would take for him to come from Italy here; if she might get some word to him—could he come in time? Would he?

Rush to her and leave that brilliant throng? Suddenly she saw Ila Moore's white hand on his arm; saw the calm smile on Ila's face.

She got up and walked, twisting her hands. Then she sat down again, idly.

Terrible Thoughts

On the bench was a newspaper. She reached for it. She turned to the front page. There was a line across the top. The body of the girl found in the basement was identified. Lily Tassman—a school teacher—young—good family.

Chickie read it—a fever burning in her heart. Some one had seen the girl walking back and forth before a doctor's office. Now, this some one remembered that the girl had a distracted manner.

Poor Lily Tassman—tears came to Chickie's eyes. For herself, though. She saw herself wandering crazily like the murdered girl; saw herself stopping people on the street with her distracted ways.

No—she wouldn't do this. Much better ways. Quietly she marshaled them. She could ride across the bay and walk too near the edge of the lower deck. She could drop into the water. She could go into the kitchen at night, turn on the gas—oh—and little Jennie stumbling across that shameful thing in the morning.

She was almost fainting. She walked again. Some way—there must be some way to meet this. Janina could do it—Janina shrugged, reading of Lily Tassman. She said: "Why in thunder did the poor fool make such a mess of it? Well—it's just as I say, let the softies and the incompetent stick to the straight and narrow. They can't get away with freedom!"

But Janina could. Janina could help her. If she went and asked—even if she were to tell the whole thing? Now in the near collapse of her endurance she regarded this mutely. Tomorrow Janina would say: "Buck up, ole kid—don't let a little chip bust up the whole works!"

Chickie Excited

This or something like it would give the opening. Chickie would laugh. She would say bitterly: "Little chip, Janina—the whole works has gone to smash. Listen—"

Janina would save her. She lay awake that night devising the means of telling it.

The next day she tried at noon to speak. Her tongue clove to her mouth. Tell Janina! Why, she was out of her mind, imagining that!

Three days passed. Each noon she made an attempt. And each time failed. But Saturday she found a way. The papers had an extra. A doctor had been arrested, charged with the murder of Lily Tassman. Chickie bought the paper.

She said to Janina: "Look—pictures of her, heart-rending aren't they?"

"What did I tell you—yelling for the murder! They've got him—he'll probably get his, and the next time a thing like this happens they'll get another quack. But they won't do a darn thing to make it decenter for the fool women that got into the mess. They won't shut their hideous tongues and let her get away with it—will they? Hound her to death and then ask, 'Who did this murder?'"

"What else could she do, Janina?"

"Do! Did she need to stall around waiting till the crack of doom before she tries to save herself? If she waited that long she had a right to beat it off to the country or brazen it out—one or the other."

"I suppose she didn't know—"

"Rubbish—a school teacher ought to have some sense. Anyway, easy enough to find out—every one has some friends or another."

"Rather ticklish asking a thing like that—"

"Better than being murdered, isn't it? You'd think she wouldn't have wasted a minute—easy enough to get out of a jam—"

"How, Janina? What could she do—"

"Nothing at that stage of the game—why so excited, baby? Look at yourself in the mirror there—white as a ghost—"

Mother Brings Relief

Chickie turned to the mirror—shaking— Why did Janina say that? She laughed. She pinched her cheeks. She said: "Well—I think this is awful—just awful—"

The opportunity passed.

The idea of suicide possessed and frightened her.

She read accounts in the newspapers, thinking: "Why don't they do it more cleverly?" Her hidden thought was this: "I'd do it and no one will ever know." Sickening chills ran over her; a mortal shrinking from the stark escape that seemed forcing every day more inevitably.

She had a habit now of closing the door of her room, turning the key softly, standing before her mirror, shaking with excitement. Often she had to grip a chair. She viewed herself from every angle. Then it seemed to her that she must be the victim of an insane alarm.

Tall—pretty face—slender as a reed.

Sitting at the table, she was often unable to eat. She looked at her mother and father, saw them crushed by the grief she was bringing them; saw Jonathan with his head bowed in his hands. She got up with some swift excuse, hurried to her room, hiding in the closet.

But when morning came up fair and beautiful, and Jennie would bring a rose for her to wear, would pin it gayly on the blue suit, her little plump hands trembling, Chickie weakened. To lean against Jennie then—drop in quiet on that ample breast—oh, the peace—the blessed, aching relief!

Visits Mary

There were wild moments when she even dreamed of doing this. Put her arms about Jennie, sink against her—tell her—yes, tell her! Was it such an awful crime she had done? And no one would ever wish to look at her again? They would rather have her dead than know of it?

Others didn't need to die. They were hard or clever like Janina, like Amy Heaton, like a dozen she knew. They could escape. She was the one chosen to pay.

Why? And now, when the love was over and he gone? Sometimes it seemed such a ghastly thing—so pitiless—she would cry, even on the street.

If some one might have touched her hand then; if they might have said: "It's not so terrible. You'll get over it; others have," she would have fallen at their feet in gratitude. She longed with a driving hunger for a brave word like that.

One day she went to Mary.

Little Edward was two now, with black hair like Jimmy's and the merriest eyes. He liked Chickie, and sat now on her lap, opening and shutting her purse, playing with the keys.

Mary said, hiding her eagerness: Not handsome, is he, Chickie? You know how I always wanted beauty? How I envied you? But personality is better, isn't it, in a man? The baby has that—don't you think so? That is—for a little fellow—"

The baby has succeeded in jangling the keys and piped in a glad, birdlike voice: "See! See! Mamma see!"

Mary's face glowed, but she feared Chickie would tease, and appeared not to notice.

Chickie lowered her head pretending to laugh against the baby's neck. She could scarcely breathe. There were questions she wished Mary to answer. She had tried several openings. Now she went in boldly.

"He's a love, Mary! A love. And you wouldn't give him up for a hundred lives, would you? Why, you're just blushing, you think he's so wonderful. Remember how we used to pity poor Lucy? Now you think a child is the greatest thing in the world, don't you?"

"We didn't know, Chickie. And four children in five years is no joke. I'll still hold that. Yet if I had to take my choice between four in a hurry or none at all, I'd take the four."

"They're worth as much as that, Mary? Honestly?"

"Yes—they are!"

"Always, Mary? Would you say they're such a blessing as that?"

"Yes, I would. They mean work, but there's no joy in the world equal to them——"

Mary kept repeating: "Yes—awful! I can't understand it. A girl like that might know better. You'd think she could have done better——"

"Maybe she thought that, too, Mary! Maybe she thought she was pretty clever."

"I suppose so. It's too horrible——"

"But it happens! Things like that happen. Mary, they do. You say it's horrible. But imagine how terrible to go and have yourself murdered. Imagine that! And all because she was going to have a child. She didn't dare have a child—didn't dare! Janina says public opinion is the murderer. It is, isn't it? People wouldn't let her have the baby! They say she wandered like a crazy person about the streets. Oh, I think that's the cruelest thing! You have a child and it's the biggest joy in the world; it's a blessing. Her's is a crime! That's the horrible part of it——"

Mary stared in amazement. "For pity's sake, Chickie, what's the matter with you? Where do you get this stuff? Want the world to think like Janina and we'll have children born on every doorstep!"

"Any old time! Oh! Mary—such a thing to say! It's no crime for married people to have children. But they aren't crowding the world out with them, are they? If they have two, why, they have a family! They're doing a great and glorious service to the face——"

Mary grinned. "True enough, true enough! You win! But at that, Chickie, do you think a girl like Lily Tassman, or any one, for that matter, has the right to bring a child here with no care for its future?"

"No. But it shouldn't be thought a crime, should it? She shouldn't be stoned to death, should she?"

"It is a crime, though. A child has certain rights. Life isn't so easy or delightful under the best conditions. We take a mighty responsibility launching any one here——"

"Being married doesn't alter that, Mary——"

"Yes, it does. It gives two to meet the responsibility."

"Oh, Mary—suppose the father died beforehand—suppose that—then there'd only be one to meet it——"

"Well—you don't count on that—a child has a right to a name, anyway, and to two parents——"

"Oh, yes! And it has a right to money and food and education. Lots of them don't get it. And if the father dies, we don't blame the child, do we, and call it frightful names, and say it has no right to live?"

It's the Hat That Makes the Woman, Is Fay King's Observation

By FAY KING

HATS! HATS! HATS! Crazy Over Hats—should be the theme song of every woman who shops.

Nothing she buys can make so much difference in her appearance as a hat. A hat makes or breaks a face!

A hat just IS or ISN'T! If it becomes her it matters little whether it costs two dollars or twenty!

An exclusive model can look atrocious on the wrong face. A bargain bonnet can look like a billion dollars on the right face.

A funny thing about the hat-hunters is that the littlest girls will make a bee-line to the hats that are big as beach umbrellas and the big girls rush over to hats hardly big enough for infants' wear!

Love's Reawakening -:- Continuation of Loves Awakening

Madge Stirs Up Trouble

The sight of my truculent mother-in-law in the doorway of the kitchen with Mrs. Ticer in her wake brought to me the feeling which old novelists used to describe as "lively dismay." I had just brought Katie to the point where she was willing to show her repentance for her atrocious treatment of Mrs. Ticer by an apology to our neighbor. But I knew that my little maid, like Cousin Egbert, of Red Gap fame, "could be pushed just so far." If Mother Graham were to carry out her purpose, announced to Katherine a few minutes earlier, of "settling that ape once for all," I did not know what domestic catastrophe might not be the result of the clash between my mother-in-law's arrogance and Katie's hysterical temper.

"Margaret!" my mother-in-law began in her most terrifying tones, but I rushed toward her with an impetuosity rare in me, and which I never used toward Dicky's august mother, knowing her detestation of any fussiness.

"I am so sorry to have kept you waiting, Mother," I cried, "but I have had to attend to several urgent things. But now I must see you at once. Mrs. Ticer, will you please excuse us for a little while? And Katie has something she wishes to say to you."

I had taken hold of my mother-in-law's arm and had hustled her through the door before she really caught my intention.

At the veranda she stopped and, jerking her arm free, leveled her angry eyes at me.

"May I inquire, Margaret," she began in her most sarcastic tone, "just what you're trying to do with me? Do you expect me to promenade across the fields to the ocean with you, or are you attempting to practice a new dance with me? Whatever your pretended purpose, I warn you it will not enable you to achieve success in your real one, that of shielding that ape in the kitchen. She had transcended all limits this time. She is going to make a full and humble apology to Mrs. Ticer—I think—yes—I think it would be good for her to go down on her knees and do the thing properly, or she is going to leave this house at once, at once, do you understand?"

"I agree with you fully, mother," I said quickly, trying to summon back to my eyes and voice the indignation I had felt toward my trying little maid. "And I already have dealt with Katie. She is very penitent and will apologize to Mrs. Ticer, is probably doing it now. I am so glad I was able to spare you an interview which would probably have been most trying. Let's forget all about it, and talk of pleasanter things. Will you have time to talk to me as soon as Katherine takes the train? I want to go over the Christmas plans with you. But I must get Katherine off first." I consulted my watch. "She ought to be eating luncheon in another 10 minutes.

My mother-in-law had folded her arms and was looking at me intently.

"Don't think you're pulling any wool over my eyes, Margaret," she said acidly, "with all this palaver about sparing me unpleasantness, and wanting to talk over Christmas plans. You're simply trying to steer me away from the kitchen, but let me tell you—"

What she meant to tell me was never revealed, for from the head of the staircase came a muffled but thoroughly frightened voice—Junior's.

"Mums! Granzie! where are you? Come up here, quick."

THE BEAUTY BOX

By HELEN FOLLETT

White-of-egg packs are used for sagging facial tissues. They are not only astringent, but they seem to make enlarged pores close up shop. The egg white is beaten slightly and patted onto the face. The colder the egg white the better the effect. A brisk tapping aids and abets the good work. Remove with ice cold water, dry the skin surface, apply a heavy tissue builder and continue the tapping.

An appreciation of beautiful colors is a great help to the woman who would dress herself pictorially, who would look her best, and be in the mode. The effect of luscious hues upon the spirits is not to be denied. Drab draperies, drab thoughts. Getting out of a dismal frock and into a gay one is like going from a darkened room into sunlight and fresh breezes.

Needle-point scissors, used for snipping off hangnails—the meanest things that grow—should be of the best grade of steel; otherwise they are worse than useless. They are expensive, but they never wear out. To have them sharpened take them to a barber supply shop. The unskilled scissor grinder will ruin them. The nail file as well should be of good steel, with fine grain and flexible.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, May 6

Although the planetary configurations for this day hold augury of promotion, preferment and many advantages, largely through the instrumentality of personal industry, application and fidelity to the interests of those served, yet there is presage of personal anxiety, disappointment or complications, which may tend to depress or sour the private life, unless similar determination and patience be brought to bear on these intimate relations.

Those whose birthday it is are at the threshold of a year of substantial achievement and progress in their affairs, with promotion, honors and favoritism won through diligence, persistency and fidelity to those in high places. This self achievement should be made to offset and compensate for social, affectional or domestic anxieties or ineptitudes.

A child born on this day should be excellently equipped to attain to high and substantial position by its own efforts, merits and dependability, which will secure it the aid and favoritism of superiors.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

What Is a New Yorker?

A New Yorker is a man, who was born in Kokomo, Oshkosh, Dublin, Berlin, Pittsburgh, Washington, D. C. (or what cities have you?), but has lived near Broadway long enough to write "New York, N. Y." opposite his name on the hotel register, when he visits other places.

A New Yorker is a person who always looks like a million dollars, even though he often has only a dollar and thirty cents in his pocket, and owes more than that to the tailor who just pressed his trousers.

A New Yorker is one who attends strictly to his OWN business, is never shocked, surprised or peeved at ANYTHING, and never knows the name of his neighbor in the apartment next door.

A New Yorker does not care how much money you have nor how you GOT it—but only how you spend it!

He is a goat in lamb's clothing, who meekly falls for every racket and submits to being gyped by profiteers, insulted by doormen and ushers, bawled out by traffic officers, roared at by taxi-drivers, sworn at by truck-drivers, high-hatted by saleswomen, bullied by janitors, held up by hat-checkers, manhandled by subway guards, charged four prices for theater seats, and put on the "sucker list" of every advertising firm—and still comes up smiling, and congratulating himself that he is a "New Yorker."

A New Yorker is a man with many habitats—but no home.

He is born in a hospital, lives in subways and taxicabs, is married at the City Hall and is buried from a funeral parlor. He spends his winters in Florida, his summers in Europe, his autumns in the mountains—and the spring in a sanitarium.

When a New Yorker has lived for three whole years in the same two-room suite in an apartment hotel, he begins to think of himself as an "old settler." One wife and a Pekingese make him a "family man;" and a can-opener and a cocktail kitchen, constitute his "domestic background."

The New Yorker is a hard-working person of simple tastes and sober habits who would like nothing better than to go home and to bed at a rational hour and lead a sane, quiet, normal life. Reading the stock market reports, listening to Amos and Andy, and taking his wife's Peke for a walk constitute his favorite diversions.

But, alas, he spends most of his evenings rushing around to speakeasies, and making whoopee at night-clubs, in the vain effort to entertain his friends from Gophir Prairie and Main Street, and live up to his reputation as a "wild sporting New Yorker."

* * *

Most people think of a New Yorker as a hard-boiled, conceited top-lofty, shrewd sophisticate. Whereas, he is far more often just a tired, overworked, harassed, gullible sap, who wonders why he goes right on living in NEW YORK!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

A Bath a Day

Bathing as a daily habit brings about a sense of physical well-being. It is a distinct help in maintaining good health.

This fact was known and was acted upon by the enlightened races of antiquity. The influence of water upon the welfare of the body has been observed for thousands of years.

DR. COPELAND

The Roman legions were probably better disciplined than the raw levies of Gaul, Helvetia, Austria, Germany, Spain and Britain. But unquestionably they were better housed, better fed and better bathed.

When occupying enemy territory, the Roman Army strategically located their camps near timber, food and water. These camp sites very frequently became stationary and permanent camps, and around them grew considerable numbers of houses. Such sites later became towns.

Many of these towns—Old Chester (from the word "castra," meaning "camp") and other towns in England ending in "chester" were Roman camps. After such a camp became stationary various luxuries were added. Always big baths (thermae) were installed. Baths of hot and cold water, with steam rooms, had all the appurtenances of those of today.

There are many people today who visit the cures or baths of Aix-les-Bains, Wiesbaden, Carlsbad and Baden-Baden. How many know that all of them were Roman baths 2,000 years ago? They were either a part of or near a Roman camp.

Archaeologists today are finding these old Roman baths in many places. One of the finest of Roman legionary camps has recently been found at Brugg, Switzerland, the site of the ancient Roman town of Vindonissa. At no very great depth was found this camp with a bath in excellent condition, with its heating system almost complete.

The earliest Greeks also knew the great value of the daily bath. High thinking and good living gave them eminence as a race.

For indoor workers the daily bath is especially needful. The skin disposes of a great deal of waste matter of the body. It is unable to function properly unless the pores are kept open by frequent bathing.

Bathing stimulates the nerves of skin and the general circulation. Its good effects are felt in every part of the body.

One who is constantly engaged in out-of-door work usually has an active skin and the waste is carried off the body in the perspiration. This vigorous exercise stimulates the other organs of elimination as well as the lungs, kidneys and intestines.

This is in contrast to the life of the average indoor worker, who does not exercise enough. To him the daily bathing fills a real want. The cold shower or tub bath is stimulating and cleansing. It keeps the skin in good condition. The thousands of germs which are always about us cannot gain a foothold when the skin is kept immaculately clean.

The bath temperature is a matter of choice for the most part. There are very many persons who cannot stand the cold plunge, and it is not wise for them to persist in trying it.

Water is as essential to life as air. It has a most powerful influence upon every form of life. Public and private baths are here for every man, woman and child, and everyone should make the most of our marvelously abundant supply of water.

In the state of New York are the baths of Saratoga. The waters there are used in the treatment of heart, kidney and other organic diseases. In the world there are many other baths which for ages have helped in the cure of disease.

The value of sea bathing is unquestionable. It is a most precious asset, and as the summer comes oh millions of people will enjoy and find benefit from the stimulating sea air and water.

Extremes of temperature in bathing should always be avoided by persons who are not robust. It would be unwise for such persons to bathe in either too cold water or for too long a time in sea water of any temperature.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Congratulate the Groom

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please tell me the proper way to congratulate a newly married couple?

MRS. R.

OFFER your "best wishes," or "best wishes for your happiness," or "every good wish to you," to the bride, and "congratulations," or "heartiest congratulations," to the groom. If you will remember these phrases as a beginning you will find them most convenient. They are accepted phrases to use, or at least to use first, and after them you may add anything that the degree of friendship will suggest. It is not supposed to be quite the proper thing to offer "congratulations" to the bride—on having won a husband!

Seek His Advice

ANSWER for R. S. T.—Since your question can only be answered by the rules and regulations of your church, I advise you to consult with your priest and talk over with him your plans. He will make everything clear and definite, and will appreciate your coming to him.

Initialing Silver

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have purchased silver knives and forks as a wedding gift for a very dear friend. Will you kindly advise me as to the proper initial to have engraved on this silver—her maiden initial or her marriage initial? M. T.

I recommend that you take your friend into your confidence and ask her what initialing she prefers on the silver. Brides usually have a very definite idea on this subject.

The conventional thing to do, the traditional thing, is to use the initials of the maiden name, but often now brides-to-be prefer the initials of the name-to-be. My judement is that the traditional way is best and shows more taste.

Grabowsky Perfected Fur Storage

The Last Word In Summer Care and Protection for Your Furs « » Sponsored by a House of Furriers with an Experience of Over Half-a-Century

A Perfected Storage Service At The Same Low Cost As Other Reliable Establishments

The care of your furs during the summer, calls for far more than mere vault storage. It is true that, when placed in the ordinary cold-storage vaults, your furs are protected against fire, theft and moths. That is not enough! Safety is only one consideration! . . . Furs require a specialized care, such as only experienced, practical furriers can render. Each different kind of fur is cared for in the manner best suited for the preservation of its beauty. What one fur requires may not be sufficient for another.

Today, the House of Grabowsky announces a perfected fur storage service. It is the last word in scientific care, backed by the prestige of a fur establishment founded fifty-five years ago. This modern, perfected service is available at the same low cost, charged by other reliable retail houses. If your furs are to be stored at all, they certainly are worth storing properly! For this perfected service, telephone ATlantic 6034.

Every Element of Service and Safety Known to Modern Science » » » »

When you are ready to place your furs in storage, Call ATlantic 6034 or write Grabowsky's. It is not necessary to pack your furs, nor even wrap them. At an appointed time a service messenger calls at your home, with individual storage cases. As he takes your furs, he hands you a temporary receipt! From that moment your responsibility ceases and Grabowsky's perfected storage-service starts.

Arriving at the store, the garments are carefully examined by one of the staff. Insurance policies are executed, and forwarded to you. Your furs are then given the detailed care required by the perfected service. When ready for the vaults, each garment is placed on a separate hanger, covered with a clean, sanitary envelope, and hung in the vaults. Thereafter, and until you desire your furs returned, they are under constant daily supervision and inspection.

« « Safety Itself Is Not Sufficient « « « Service Is Equally Important

Grabowsky perfected fur storage is safety plus service « » with an Insurance Policy to guarantee both.

JOB IN DANGER, BOY KILLS 2

VANCOUVER, Wash., May 5.—(INS.)—Fearing he was going to lose his job on the farm where he was employed, Clifford Campbell, 15-year-old boy, today confessed, police said, that he planned to cripple his employers by setting off a dynamite charge and thus be kept to look after chores on the farm.

The dynamite blast, however, killed his employers, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Northrup.

The boy admitted placing a box of dynamite under the Northrup house.

The youth is also said by officers to have said he had been "kidded" by his employers because of his friendship for a girl on a neighboring farm and his "dullness" in school.

Twenty-two members were received at the last meeting, and memorial services, to be held some time during this month, were arranged.

BISHOP URGED TO RETAIN POST

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 5.—(AP.)—Vestries of eight Episcopal churches in Central and Eastern Kentucky have adopted resolutions urging the Rt. Rev. H. P. Almon Abbott, bishop of Lexington, to withdraw his resignation tendered to the primate of the church last week.

Bishop Abbott resigned after the Rev. Julius A. Velasco, Dayton, Ky., was acquitted by an ecclesiastical court of a charge of violating a preordination agreement he would resign his ministry if he married a Roman Catholic.

The bishop, who had requested the diocesan committee to bring the charges, considered the verdict a reflection on his integrity, since the court had accepted Velasco's testimony that the agreement had been rescinded, in opposition to the bishop's statement that it still was in force when he married.

Here Are the Rules for "Piratepuz"

(1) Every day until further notice the daily Sun-Telegraph will print a frame, or diagram in squares, each containing the letters that will, when placed in order, spell the name of a Pittsburgh Pirate baseball player.

(2) In this frame it may be possible that abbreviations and nicknames will be employed. The readers of the Sun-Telegraph in solving the daily PIRATEPUZ are to endeavor to submit as their answer the full, complete and correct name of the player, devoid of nickname or abbreviation, other than that of the middle initial, if there happens to be one.

(3) This is a contest that will test the skill of the readers of The Sun Telegraph as to their knowledge of the names of the players of the Pittsburgh club.

(4) There will be a new PIRATEPUZ every day and daily prizes for the correct and most nearly correct answers will be awarded as follows:
1st Prize ..... $10.00 in Cash
2nd Prize ..... 5.00 in Cash
3rd Prize ..... 2.50 in Cash
Next 25 Prizes—Each a Grandstand General Admission ticket to the Pirates' game, good any day during the season.

(5) Neatness in the preparation of answers submitted will be a factor in the judging. In case of ties, the contestants so tied will be given an equal award. The decision of the judges will be final in all cases.
Contestants agree that entries become the property of the Sun-Telegraph. The contest is open to everyone—men and women, boys and girls—no matter where they live, with the exception of employees of the Sun-Telegraph. You do not have to purchase a copy of the Sun-Telegraph to enter this contest. The files of this newspaper are available at the Sun-Telegraph Branch Office, Fifth Avenue and Market Street, where any person can copy or trace the puzzle.

(6) All answers must be addressed to the PIRATEPUZ Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and must be postmarked not later than midnight of the day following the publication of the PIRATEPUZ for which the answer is submitted. Contestants are requested to place the number of the puzzle on the low outside left hand corner of the envelope.

(7) Winners will be announced within one week after the publication of the PIRATEPUZ.

RED CROSS AID IN AMITY TOLD BY HOOVER

He in Reducing Traffic Toll and Health Work Urged at Convention

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The American Red Cross was described today by President Hoover as "a universal agency for giving practical expression to international good-will which is the common heritage of all."

He said it is a grave responsibility that the Red Cross holds for the United States, and there is implied in it a preparedness for instant action. The President opened the initial session of the four-day session of the Red Cross convention.

In discharge of this responsibility, he continued, it represents more than just "cold-blooded efficiency," it stands for the spiritual quality, the charity and sympathy of a nation to the helpless.

The President said the nation has learned to place full confidence in the efficiency and singlemindedness of the Red Cross.

He explained that in the last 15 years there has been quite a change in the purpose of, and an expansion in the benevolent activities of the great charity organization.

PEACE AID TOLD

Originally designed for succor in war, it has now become also the national agency for relief of disaster in peacetime, both at home and abroad, he said, and in the past decade has distinguished itself a score of times by effective organization of the saving of life and suffering.

Declaring accidents from all causes kill twice as many Americans yearly as those killed in the World War, James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations, said the organization has a service to perform in everyday life as well as in war and in time of disaster.

Fieser compared the quarter-million Americans killed and wounded, the World War toll, with the following: Two per cent or more than 500,000 workers ill daily; 170,000,000 days per school year lost through illness by 24,000,000 school children; an average total of 700,000 in hospitals daily; loss of 250,000,000 work days per year by the 36,000,000 wage earners in the United States.

URGES HEALTH WORK

He said this condition points to the need for public health instruction through nurses and home hygiene classes, including instruction in food selection.

He directed attention to the mounting figures of automobile accidents and called on the Red Cross for concerted aid in solving the problem.

Ernest Bicknell, in charge of insular and foreign work, stressed need for increased foreign service in famines and disasters.

Miss Constance Payne, of Terre Haute, Ind., junior delegate, told how the Junior Red Cross has helped hospitalize American World War veterans.

James K. McClintock, vice chairman in charge of finance, reported that since April, 1917, the Red Cross has expended approximately $577,000,000, reducing a post-war surplus of nearly $50,000,000 to $16,000,000. Increased membership is needed, he said.

Two Homes Damaged In Gas Explosion

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., May 5.—Fire which followed a gas explosion destroyed the home of J. B. Hoffman and damaged another owned by R. H. Newell, near South Brownsville yesterday, causing damage of $11,000. Firemen attributed the blast to a defective gas furnace. William Chew, 20, a spectator, was burned about the face when struck by a falling electric wire.

13 Children Hurt When Truck Upsets

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., May 5.—(AP.)—Thirteen children were injured, two of them seriously, when 28 boys and girls were thrown from an automobile truck in which they were riding near Cannonsburg. The children were thrown to the road when they overturned the truck body by rushing to one side to wave to a passing motorist.

Runs Away

LLOYD GASHER, 13

BOY RUNAWAY HELD HERE

Lloyd Gasher, 13, left his home in Waynesboro, Pa., in search of health. A policeman found him at Fifth and Wilkins avenues early today, wearing his Boy Scout uniform, and a little chilly, for he had no overcoat.

To the sergeant at Oakland Police Station he related his story. The family doctor had told his parents that he was the victim of tuberculosis and the parents planned to place him in a sanitarium.

But the far western plains seemed to hold more promise of health than a sanitarium, so packing a few belongings the boy left his home and started West.

"If I could only get out there with the Indians, where there's lots of fresh air and sunshine, I know I'd get well," he told the sergeant.

The sergeant thought so, too, but he felt the boy's parents should know, and he notified them by telephone. Sometime today Lloyd will be on his way back home, where doctors will try to restore him to health.

'Al Capone' Back From Havana Freed In N. Y.

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP.)—Awe-struck passengers on the United Fruit liner Toloa, who thought they were fellow-travelers of Al Capone, of Chicago, were keenly disappointed when the vessel arrived from Havana.

They saw a squad of eight detectives meet the gang chieftain, as they thought, talk to him a few minutes and then—horrors—let him go.

It turned out that "Al Capone" was none other than Anthony Perrapato, mayor of Garfield, N. J., who resembles Capone somewhat.

LAW INSTITUTE TO STUDY BAR

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP.)—The American Law Institute, composed of leading barristers throughout the country convenes here this week to study the progress made by the legal profession in correcting uncertainty and complexity and delay in administration of justice. The session will begin Wednesday.

George W. Wickersham, president of the Institute and chairman of the Law Enforcement Commission, Chief Justice Hughes of the Supreme Court, former Senator George Wharton Pepper, of Philadelphia, and Henry U. Sims, of Birmingham, Ala., president of the American Bar Association, are to speak.

Members of the organizations will be received by President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House Thursday evening.

As a preliminary to this session, the members of the State Judicial Councils will gather here to confer with members of the Institute of Law on the most effective means of co-operation between their organizations.

Mothers of 32 Rivals For 'Queen'

MEXICO CITY, May 5.—(AP.)—Efforts by the newspaper Excelsior to find Mexico's most prolific mother, who will be crowned "Mother Queen of Mexico" on Mother's Day, have brought to light the existence of some remarkably large families.

The choice of a queen is still undecided pending investigation of the families of two mothers each said to have 32 living children. Mother's Day in Mexico is May 10.

Twenty-two "Mother Queens" of states, whose names were announced, have a total of 319 children, an average of 14 each.

2 DIE IN DUEL OVER WOMAN

OAKLAND, Cal., May 5—Two men were dead here today after a desperate fight in an apartment, and a woman who refused to disclose her name, was held while police sought to clear up the tragedy.

The dead men were Alex M. Sanderson, Oakland policeman, and George E. Mellin, 32, of Alameda.

Shot through the head and abdomen, Sanderson was still alive, but unconscious, when officers arrived. He died shortly after being taken to a hospital.

The woman was traced to another apartment in the building when police found her necklace and articles of clothing in the apartment where the shooting occurred.

The two men and woman were evidently eating and drinking at a table when the quarrel began.

CHURCH BACKS SCHOOL MERGER

PHILADELPHIA, May 5.—(AP.)—Hearty approval of efforts to bring about mergers of seminaries in the interest of economy and efficiency is recommended by a special committee of the Presbyterian General Council in a report to be presented to the General Assembly of the church at Cincinnati, May 29.

The special committee, headed by the Rev. Dr. Samuel T. Wilson, Marysville, Tenn., states that suggested consolidations might meet legal and sentimental obstacles and it suggests that mergers be gradually effected by the seminaries themselves. The committee holds that "willing unions will be constructive in their effect; unwilling ones might involve the church in controversy."

Apartments of distinction in all parts of the city are listed in today's Classified Section.

KONJOLA BRINGS QUICK RELIEF IN LONG ILLNESS

"This New Medicine Is Godsend to Humanity," Says Grateful Pittsburgh Man.

Surprising as it seems, Konjola, the new and different medicine, is at the very peak of its powers in those stubborn and obstinate cases that have defied and resisted all other medicines and treatments tried.

MR. ARTHUR JOHNSON

Yet it is not to be wondered at, for Konjola is really 32 medicines skillfully blended into one. Of Konjola's 32 ingredients, 22 are the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. All who suffer and who would be well again are urged to get the facts about this medicine from the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, where daily he is telling the wonderful story of this remarkable medicine, and passing out free samples and literature. Do not expect promises, claims or empty phrases, for Konjola is a medicine of deeds and achievements. Take, as a typical example of Konjola at work, the case of Mr. Arthur Johnson, 1123 Ingham street, Pittsburgh. Imagine his joy and surprise when he found in this new medicine just what he needed to end his suffering of twelve years. Just recently he said to the Konjola Man:

"This new medicine is a godsend to humanity. I say this after Konjola proved to me what it can do. I don't think anyone ever suffered more severely from stomach trouble than I did for twelve years. After every meal I was in distress from gas bloating and severe pains. For days at a time I could not eat or drink a thing without suffering afterward. I was very nervous and irritable, and had terrible headaches. I lay awake every night for hours before going to sleep. As the result of insufficient nourishment, and improper rest, I always felt exhausted and had to force myself to go to work.

"At first, I was skeptical about Konjola, as so many other medicines had brought only failure and disappointment. But the first two bottles of Konjola brought excellent results. Eagerly, I continued with the treatment. In six weeks I was like a man remade. I sleep so soundly that I had to buy an alarm clock to awaken me in the morning. I have a good appetite, and certainly enjoy eating foods I dared not taste before. My nerves have quieted, and headaches are gone. I give this indorsement to Konjola in the hope that others who suffer as I did will profit by my experience."

Thus Konjola works, quickly, yet thoroughly. One does not have to wait long for results when Konjola is given a chance.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. FREE SAMPLES GIVEN at this store. Konjola is sold also at all Dow Stores in Pittsburgh and

Soundness and Strength Are As Desirable in a Store As in a Bank

Many people delude themselves with the charming idea that if only they put their money into a safe place, they are thereby saving money.

That would be entirely true if every person were sufficient unto himself, and needed never to buy anything.

But the minute you make a purchase, whether of hats, shoes or roller skates, where you spend your money becomes almost as important to saving it, as what you buy.

The constant, uninterrupted growth of this institution from the day of its founding nearly sixty years ago, to its present form, as Pittsburgh's largest retail store, is visual proof of the confidence the public has placed in our methods. Proof of the soundness of the Kaufmann "merchandise bank." Proof of the strength in Kaufmann enterprise, in Kaufmann fair dealing, in Kaufmann "return on your money."

Just as it pays to deal with a strong, sound financial institution, it pays to deal with Kaufmann's.

WHOLESALE LOOT FOUND, TEN HELD

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM DFARR

One of the unusual homes in this district is the mansion in Freeport road, Aspinwall, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sanders. It is, for one thing, at least 100 years old, and then, again, at one time everybody in Aspinwall whispered that it was haunted.

The mansion was built by Senator Ross, who was the first United States Senator from Western Pennsylvania. The story goes that he had the lumber shipped from Georgia. The mansion is of pure southern architecture and its rooms are big, high-ceilinged affairs. They say that Senator Ross would step from his mansion down to his canal boat in the nearby Allegheny River and move thus to what is now downtown Pittsburgh. Ross street was named for him.

It was during a two-year vacancy that the legend of the "haunt" grew up, but this was emphatically exploded by Mr. Sanders, a brave soul. His first night in the mansion, Mr. Sanders armed himself with an oil lamp and explored all the recesses. What he discovered that night and later enabled him to announce to the timid that the ghosts were nothing less than doves and squirrels and nuts.

It seems that, during the vacancy, squirrels had found the attic a convenient place in which to hide their food. And families of doves had established themselves in a concealed section behind the eaves. Well, the doves were playful doves and every now and then one would supply a gentle push to one of the nuts, which would promptly rattle down the circular staircase with such effect that the echo rang loud in the quiet night and the neighbors and passersby told weird tales. Too, one could hear the doves stepping about in their secret home, and this added to the legend of the Meadows, which was the name Senator Ross attached to his mansion.

Also, there was a blind window on an upper floor—a window on the outside, but just the wall on the inside. The neighbors wondered about this, but the simple explanation is that the architect felt that he needed a window-like appearance to match the other side of the mansion.

That staircase has found its way to fiction. Good authority has it that this was the circular staircase described by Mary Roberts Rinehart in her early novel of that name. From cellar to roof the staircase is circular. In the cellar you find a wooden floor and a wine cellar of size.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanders are constantly learning more of the mansion's history. Recently they discovered that the wallpaper used in such mansions as the Meadows 100 years ago is now a collector's item and extremely valuable. Such wallpaper was highly illustrated in gay colors. There is a possibility that some of it remains beneath the layers of modern wallpaper on some of the rooms today.

Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 5.

Poor Mr. Hoover, he was right in the midst of a speech over the radio predicting "prosperity" and telling that we had lived down the Wall Street panic, when just as he sat down another stock market crash fell right in his lap.

If we could just persuade our prominent men to stop "predicting." If they must predict, let 'em predict on the weather, or the first crop, or Russia, something they know about, but please quit guessing at what this country is going to do.

Yours,
WILL.

GIRL UNAFRAID

Angered at Ken, Ardeth Goes Out With Tom

CHAPTER XXIII.

As the hand of her wrist watch went slowly around the dial apprehension flooded Ardeth's mind. Imagination persisted in painting accidents—Ken's car had collided with another—he was hurt—wanting her—

Reason scornfully thrust this aside. Oh, that was absurd! Women always borrowed trouble! Calamity Jane—that's what Ken would call her.

He'd been detained at the office. Any minute now he'd come about the corner.

She grew self-conscious at the glances of passers-by. If anyone she knew should see her, how silly she'd look!

With cold fingers she fitted the key to the lock and reentered the shop.

Surprisingly dark in here after the gray light of the street. She sat down quietly on a tabourette facing the window, but after a moment she found herself pacing the floor.

Up the soft thick carpet of the outer shop . . . into the smokerie . . . back again with nervous measured steps, following a winding path which dodged couches and screen and teakwood tabourettes.

Her nerves were taut. Somehow symbolic, this restless waiting in the dark. Why did she always have this fear where Ken was concerned? Forever lurking under the sweet security of their love. Afraid . . . She was afraid . . .

A little whimper broke from her. "Oh, Ken—please . . ."

The sound of her own voice speaking in the shadowy room jolted her back to reason.

Jealousy
Thinks That Ken Is With Cecile

Here! This was silly! Ridiculous to be carrying on like this. She would not strain toward the window. She'd go back and wait for him to phone or come.

Determinedly calm, she walked into the smokerie, pulled a lamp cord and sat down under its mellow glow to wait. Suddenly she remembered that this was where Cecile usually sat when she came down here. Abruptly, Ardeth stood up, eyes dilated, lips parted.

Memory was stirring. A brief happening that afternoon which she had paid little attention to at the time. Mary Eastwood calling after Phyllis Hawkins as she was leaving. "Of course you'll be at Cecile's dinner tonight at Tats, Phil?"

With one of those intuitive flashes which leaps the hurdles of reason and argument, Ardeth knew that Ken was not coming. While she waited for him here in the lonely shop, he was with Cecile in the beach cafe.

Jealousy tearing her with hot fingers. Anger shaking through her. And a sick self-contempt.

Oh what a fool—what a poor blind fool she had been! How they would laugh—Nell—Aunt Stel—if they could see her now! Aunt Stel's derisive cackle: "He's like many another young fellow—takin' his fun with a poor girl before he marries a rich one!"

Accompanies Tom
Goes for Dinner and Dances With Him

"Oh!" She covered her face with her hands. "Oh!"

Pulling on her hat regardless. Dragging on her coat. Shutting the front door with a crash which threatened its glass. Then stopping in the doorway, her heart leaped in her mouth at the sight of a passing car which slowed abruptly as the driver saw her.

And suddenly Ardeth found herself very cool and calm and collected smiling back at Tom Corbett.

She had crossed the pavement . . . Was looking up at him.

"You're too conscientious, Miss Carroll!" he chided. "What time is this to be quitting work!"

"We had a new shipment of perfumes, I wanted to get them assorted," she heard herself explaining smoothly.

"Going home now? Let me drive you."

"Oh—it isn't far! It's hardly worth while."

He smiled. Let's make it farther. Let's make it worth while. I wonder—is it too much to hope you have no engagement tonight? That you'd go to dinner with me?

As she hesitated he grew pleading. "Any place you say. Somewhere where we can dance? How's Taits? Aw, Miss Carroll, I've been feeling lucky all day—don't spoil the spell!"

She laughed and impulsively got in the car beside him. "Taits!" She said and then laughed a little shrilly.

Before she reached the hotel she was already regretting her action. Petty—to spy on Ken like this. She didn't want to be petty, if Ken had hurt her. Then, at the memory of Cecile's lovely cruel smile her lips tightened. That Ken could do this to her!

No Doormat
Ardeth Decides to Save Her Pride

Anyway, she'd have to go through with it now, she told herself grimly as she dressed in her sky-top room while Tom smoked and waited in the car before the hotel. She'd show Ken that she was no doormat. At least her pride could be saved. If a girl was a fool enough to break her heart over a man who was only playing about, she had no one to blame but herself! She wouldn't be a patient Grizelda weeping in corners!

A lovely reflection which looked at her from the mirror. Anger had lent Ardeth more vivid beauty. Darkening the amber of her eyes, glowing heightened color on her cheeks. The sleeveless slip of yellow satin played up to the strange golden quality of her, and when she went down stairs she was slim and lovely and troubling to the senses of men. Troubling certainly to the honest heart of Tom Corbett as she slipped into the seat beside him.

Thinks of Ken
Hides Tears Away From Tom

As they drove toward the beach she was determinedly gay. Whimsical—charming—not permitting herself to think. It was in these moments that she realized that a new Ardeth Carroll had been born—an Ardeth deeper, far more subtle, than the girl of a few months before.

Or even, she amended, of a few weeks before. Some precious faith had slipped away.

They reached the great wooden place standing in its shadowy gardens. Tall windows glowing with light. Thin strains of music filtering into the night.

Bitter excitement rising like a tide on Ardeth's heart as Tom drove the machine along the curving drive to the entrance.

So many times she had come here with Ken. Just the two of them, dancing . . . Ken holding her so close she could feel his heart beat. Looking up into the dark blue of his eyes, seeing his smiling lips silently frame "I love you."

She dropped her head quickly as Tom helped her from the car, lest he see that her eyes had filled.

PETE MESSIER AND "LINDY" DICK ANDERSON AND "CODGER," WOUNDED WITH GUNSHOT

NURSING TWO OF THE WILSON BOROUGH PET DOGS WHICH WERE STRANGELY MISSING AND RETURNED WITH INJURIES

DOGS KIDNAPED, BOYS MOURN

"Who has a grudge against our dogs?"

This is the plaintive query of six little boys of Clairton who are seeking lost pets or are nursing doggies that were injured and returned home with crippled legs. It has not been explained why the dogs have been attacked or stolen.

King Kirmeyer wants to know what has become of his dog, Teddy, missing since last week. King and his brothers and sisters are inconsolable.

Codger, who belongs to Dick and Jim Anderson, disappeared more than a week ago, but returned after two days and seemed to want to tell of his adventures. The boys believe he was stolen and escaped.

Lindy, Peter Mesler's dog, came limping home suffering gunshot wounds and his little master is filled with rage against the person who would shoot an innocent animal. Elwood Birch and Norwood Blank are looking for the person who wounded their dog. In the meantime all the boys are looking and hoping for the return of Teddy.

With Lieut. Eckels were Patrolmen William Corcoran and Joseph Hopkins, and Detectives Joseph Connolley and Dudley Crosser. Diet Hints

Are you getting fat? Consult a mirror and a pair of accurate scales. You may be several pounds overweight without realizing it.

Obesity results from eating more food than the body requires. Excess food is converted into fat, so gradually that most people do not notice it. Suddenly they wake up to the realization that they are 10 to 15 pounds overweight.

Many men and women, especially those over middle age, gain weight at the rate of 10 pounds a year.

To reduce weight sanely, eat as many vegetables as you like. Moderate helpings of meat and fish are recommended. Either one thin slice of bread or one potato may be included in the lunch and dinner menus.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's" Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interested.

Today's Question: A court fight has ensued in Missouri because a parent alleged his child was unduly influenced because a teacher smoked. Do you believe that a majority of parents really object to the teacher who smokes?

MARGARETTA KING, Downtown: There can be no question about the idea of women teachers creating a wrong opinion by smoking. They do not. And, anyhow, the smoking is done after school hours, if they do smoke. Smoking is almost universal.

Miss King

Charles Marsh

CHARLES MARSH, orchestra conductor, downtown: I object to all women smoking. It is not natural. For a teacher to smoke — well, that makes the matter worse. They shouldn't do it. It has a bad influence.

SALLY GOLDSTEIN, secretary, Station WCAE: Yes, I do. But humorously, I think the teachers should not accept cigarets from the children. Otherwise the youngsters might help themselves to see that the teacher was kept well supplied with the weed.

Miss Goldstein

FRED GOERNER, musician, Ingram: I disapprove of teachers smoking. Naturally, I suppose you mean after school hours. Smoking, in my opinion, is synonymous with looseness. Of course, there are plenty exceptions to the rule.

Fred Goerner

HERBERT LOMOSK, violinist, Oakland: I cannot see anything wrong with a school teacher smoking if she wants to. Nearly all of the young school teachers I know smoke cigarets now and then, and I am sure their charges haven't been influenced for any wrong.

H. Lomosk

Miss Donald

RUTH DONALD, downtown: It is perfectly O. K. for women teachers to smoke if they want to. They have the same rights and privileges of men in the United States. Men teachers smoke. Then why not women?

DETROIT SEES REMBRANDTS

Charles M. Schwab, once belonged to Sir Joshua Reynolds.

Two portraits lent by A. W. Mellon, the "Self Portrait" of 1659 and the "Portrait of an Old Woman," are among the finest paintings Rembrandt created.

The exhibition at Detroit shows the versatility of Rembrandt and his unceasing observations on the life about him—happen what would. His development through the four decades of his activity from 1629 to 1669, year by year including portraiture, landscape, still life, mythological, historical and Biblical themes, are shown with a completeness that has not hitherto been attempted in the United States.

In the entire art history of Europe, only three exhibitions comparable in scope have been assembled.

That a painter of Rembrandt's ideas should now be so highly idealized points to the ultimate value of truth. As Dr. Valentiner said in his introduction to this exhibition:

KNEW ONE STANDARD

"Rembrandt knew only one standard of measuring values, that of spiritual worth, and ever sought to show that ALL outer appearance is immaterial and that clothes do not make the man.

"He hung the most splendid mantle around the shoulders of the poorest model, and dressed the most distinguished in the plainest costume, devoid of ornament. He painted the poor, rich, and the rich, poor.

"Thus in his own way he solved the social problem by seeking to recognize and knowing how to value the real worth of human beings, irrespective of the social stratum to which they might belong."

WIDE CHOICE OF HATS A FEATURE THIS SEASON

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, MAY 5.—We are permitted, this season, to let chic go to our heads. For never was there such a delightful variety of chic and charming hats, thus affording a market contrast to the very indifferent and rather uniform headgear of other seasons. Clever little perky hats, large and flattering models created in all kinds of materials from lace to linen, all these are this season's headlights.

PARTICULARLY interesting are the little berets of milan straw, cellophane and other weaves. These straws being also used for various cleverly draped turbans and toques. These models are are also developed in straw-lace, one of the season's successes. The larger droopy type of hat will make its appearance with summer days and soft, fluttery frocks. In the meantime we greet the sun in nonchalant little creations that are replete with verve and vivacity, and therefore expressive of the spirit of the boulevards in the pulsating springtime.

BOTH of the sketches for today are of hats that have already won a success in a season conspicuous for attractive millinery. The first is a Reboux model and is worn by the Princess Cito de Bitetto with enormous chic. The flaring wing-like pieces at the sides are especially effective and buoyantly smart. The entire hat is of black felt in a very fine, soft quality. The second model owes its inception to the very clever Agnes, which should be sufficient honor for any hat. It is a youthful little beret of black and green hemp lace, the tam part being black and the bandeau making use of the green material. This model is really one of the most successful hats shown in Agnes' new and very diversified collection.

You too — on short notice, can have Hair that is Lovely and Alluring

A "Beauty Shampoo" in 10 minutes

Quickly, Easily, at a few cents cost—you can have a Real "Beauty Shampoo" that will give Your Hair a Loveliness, quite unobtainable by Ordinary Washing.

YOU CAN SAVE TIME, expense and inconvenience, by adopting this simple method of "beauty shampooing" which gives truly professional results at home.

The beauty of your hair, its sparkle . . . its gloss and lustre . . . depends, almost entirely, upon the way you shampoo it.

A thin, oily film, or coating, is constantly forming on the hair. If allowed to remain, it catches the dust and dirt—hides the life and lustre—and the hair then becomes dull and unattractive.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a glass or pitcher with a little warm water added, makes an abundance of . . . soft, rich, creamy lather . . . which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing with it every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

Only thorough shampooing will . . . remove this film . . . and let the sparkle, and rich, natural . . . color tones . . . of the hair show.

Ordinary washing fails to satisfactorily remove this film, because—it does not clean the hair properly.

Besides—the hair cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali, in ordinary soaps, soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why women, by the thousands, who value beautiful hair, are using Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. It cleanses so thoroughly; is so mild and so pure, that it cannot possibly injure, no matter how often you use it.

You will notice the difference in the appearance of your hair the very first time you use Mulsified, for it will feel so delightfully clean, and be so soft, silky, and fresh-looking.

Try a Mulsified "Beauty Shampoo" and just see how quickly it is done. See how easy your hair is to manage, and how lovely and alluring it will look. See it sparkle—with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store, or toilet goods counter, . . . anywhere in the world.

Why Kotex gives you such a safe, secure feeling

How the scientific design and wonderful absorbency of this sanitary pad provide protection that lasts.

YOU will wonder, once you've used Kotex, how you ever managed to get along without it. For here is sanitary protection that is designed to fit; designed to protect comfortably for hours.

Naturally, one feels safe, secure—because Kotex is made of a marvelous absorbent called Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding. Cellucotton is a cellulose substance which, for sanitary purposes, performs the same function as the softest cotton, with five times the absorbency. That means five times the security.

Hospitals prefer it

Throughout America, the leading hospitals (85% of them) now use Kotex absorbent. This preference of hospital authorities should guide every woman's choice of sanitary protection.

What does one seek, besides quick, thorough absorbency? Softness, for one thing. And Kotex offers a lasting softness—not a mere surface downiness which soon packs into chafing hardness.

Kotex is adjustable. You can remove layers of the filler. It may be worn on either side—doesn't have to be used in a certain specified way. You get the same, complete protection.

The fact that Kotex is so easily disposed of has changed the hygienic habits of millions of women the world over. Kotex Company, Chicago, Ill.

KOTEX IS SOFT...

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

3—Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly by a special process.

4—Disposable, instantly, completely.

Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12

MARIE ATTENDS MEMORIAL

COTESCI, Rumania, May 5.—(AP.)—Queen Marie, accompanied by members of the court and government officials, yesterday attended, in the presence of thousands of peasants, a touching memorial service for nearly 150 persons killed in the burning of the local church during an Easter vigil service on Good Friday.

Princess Helen, members of the Regency Council, the leading ecclesiastics of the country, and peasants from miles around were present for the service.

Queen Marie spoke to several of the survivors in the hospital, distributing presents, and consoled the relatives of the dead.

The fire started when flimsy curtains in the wooden church blew across altar candles. The worshippers, panic-stricken, crowded against the main doors, which opened inward, and cut off their own escape. One hundred twenty-two bodies were removed from the ruins and buried in a single grave on April 21. Of 17 persons injured, 10 died later.

WRECK OF RUM CHASER SOUGHT

DETROIT, May 5.—(INS.)—Eighteen Coast Guard boats today cruised the western end of Lake Erie from Trenton to Toledo in quest of wreckage from a rum-chasing speedboat whose crew of three guards drowned in the lake Thursday.

Floating evidence, if found, will determine, it is believed, whether the officers met their death when a storm swamped their boat and swept them into the water, or if their craft sank, according to another surmise, after being rammed by a rum ship.

The three in the speedboat were Capt. Gardner D. Young, 39, in charge of Coast Guard cutter 173; William Pratt, 38, master mechanic's mate, and Jack Hay, 28, chief master machinist, all from the Cost Guard station at Port Clinton, O. The bodies of the captain and Hay were recovered yesterday.

The medals will be awarded to boy graduates of the Eighth grade, selected by their fellow students as the outstanding student of their particular school, in scholarship, athletics, character and in general department.

Prisoner Awarded Hospital Transfer

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 5.—Declared by physicians to be in danger of dying within six months if compelled to remain in the Allegheny County workhouse, Max Hannan, once one of Fayette County's most active politicians, was ordered removed to Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh, for treatment. Drs. A. E. Crow and W. A. McHugh reported they found the prisoner had lost about 40 pounds.

Judge S. John Morrow, who last September sentenced Hannan to 18 months and fined him $1,800 on a liquor charge, ordered the sheriff to effect the transfer of Hannan at once.

GIANTS OPEN SERIES HERE

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

New York 1929 Jinx. | Changes in Flag Races.
Six Straight From Bucs. | Flashy Starters Slump.
Paul Waner's Busy Bat. | New Pro Floor Rules.

GIANTS WIN 7 OF LAST 8 GAMES HERE

THE PIRATES HAD some accounts carried over from last season to square with the Giants as they prepared to open the big four game series with John McGraw's troops here today. Recollections of what they had suffered at the hands of the New Yorkers in 1929 made them eager to start a little table-turning in this first meeting of 1930 with their ancient foemen. For the preceding campaign was the most disastrous experienced in many years by the Bucs in competition with these particular rivals. The locals won only eight of the 21 games played, and as a result they had a close call from being beaten out for second place by the easterners, capturing the runner-up position at the finish by a margin of only three box scores.

John McGraw

And the majority of the Corsairs' defeats, too, were administered on the home grounds. Ten of the 21 games were played at Forbes Field and the Giants won no fewer than seven of them. You'll have to go back a long way in the records to find another year in which the Rovers fared so poorly against the McGrawites here.

THIS IS ANOTHER season and the Bucs and their followers were hopeful that today would see a start made toward vastly different results, but in undertaking to change the complexion of things for 1930 the Emmen faced the contract of breaking one of the longest losing streaks they have ever suffered in Giant competition. Of their last 10 contests with the McGrawites they have won only two.

Not only that, but the Corsairs dropped the last six in a row. The Giants won the last three events of the final New York series in late August and then took three straight in their closing Pittsburgh series in September. The final game scheduled here was prevented by rain.

ON THEIR PRECEDING trip to Pittsburgh the New Yorkers lost the final game but won the first two, and on their initial visit of 1929 they barged the second two games after losing the first pair, one of their victories being a weird four-hour 20-to-15 affair in which they scored eight runs in the fourteenth inning.

Herb Pruett

So the Giants came here today with a record not only of having beaten the Bucs in all their last six meetings, but of having won seven of the last eight games they played at Forbes Field. No other club has cleaned up here to that extent in a long string of campaigns.

IT'S EASY TO tell when the Giants are in town. Every time McGraw brings his three ring circus to Pittsburgh there's a quickening of baseball interest throughout the district and the fans flock to Forbes Field in greater numbers than for any other games during the season. The fighting spirit for which McGraw's clubs always are noted, and the wealth of color they present at all times, make the Giants the strongest drawing card in the league as far as Pittsburgh is concerned. Even when they are down in third or fourth place they are better attractions here than are some other clubs when leading the league.

The fact that the McGrawites have been fighting with the Pirates for first place this spring and shape up as probable pennant rivals of the locals right down to the finish makes them even stronger attractions on their present visit than usual.

Besides, McGraw is presenting some strange faces that lend interest. He has a new regular in Center Fielder Walter Roettger, obtained from the Cardinals in a recent trade, and a new semi-regular in Infielder Eddie Marshall, recalled from Bridgeport and alternating with Pat Crawford at second base.

THE NEW PITCHERS are headed by Herb Pruett, former Brown and Philly left-hander, bought from Newark. Others are Ray Lucas and LeRoy Parmelee, right-handers, from Toledo, and Joe Heving, Memphis recruit, right-hander, and brother of John Heving, Red Sox catcher. There is also a new 18-year-old catcher named Francis Healy, a semi-pro from Holyoke.

Paul Waner

Dave Bancroft and Irish Meusel are back as coaches. Ray Schalk and Bert Niehoff having followed Roger Bresnahan into the discard. Eddie Roush is a holdout and on the ineligible list. Jack Scott has been released to Toledo and Eddie Farrell was sent to the Cards with George Fisher in the trade for Roettger.

THE EARLY PROMISE of a big year for Paul Waner has been strengthened by the continued great hitting of the Pirate right-fielder. It wasn't Paul's fault that the Bucs lost two out of three games to the Braves, as he batted .667 during the series, with eight hits in 12 times at bat. By making two hits in four trips to the plate on Saturday he kept up the remarkable average of .500, with which he was leading both major leagues up to today, his record for the first 15 games of the year being 26 hits in 52 times at bat.

AN AVERAGE OF a safe blow in every other time at bat for 15 games spells some fair-to-middling hitting. It's a better start than the elder Waner got in 1927, when he won the National League batting championship with .380. And he hasn't begun to slug yet, having made only two extra-base slams.

Paul's fielding has improved, too, particularly in the matter of coming in for short flies and on balls hit to his left. He was the last Pirate regular to make an error, being charged with his first misplay last Saturday, one inning after Gus Suhr miscued for the first time.

BASEBALL'S CHANGING FORTUNES are already in evidence. The Pirates, after winning eight of their first nine games, lost four of their last six up to today. The Giants started out with seven straight wins but have been beaten in four of their last five encounters. The Cardinals began at an even gait but have now dropped five games in succession. The Senators won 10 of their first 12 contests, including a string of eight consecutive victories, but have gone down in three of their last four engagements. The Tigers won three of their first four, but have lost 12 of their last 14.

On the other hand, the Dodgers, after losing seven of their first eight games, ran a string of straight wins up to seven by beating the Cards twice yesterday, and the Yanks, who lost their first five, have won three of their last four. The Senators had not lost two consecutive games prior to yesterday. Cleveland is now the only club in either big league that has not yet been defeated twice in succession.

Charley Hyatt

CHARLEY HYATT, Pitt basketball star during the last three years, will find American League conditions changed considerably if he enters that professional loop next year, as expected. For the league has just adopted a rookie rule that will compel each club to have at least two youngsters on the floor at all times during a game. In other words, no team can make a runaway race of it by presenting a club of veteran stars too strong

LOCAL RIVALS IN GRUDGE AFFAIR

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

One of those old-fashioned grudge fights is on the boards for the delection of the local fans tonight.

As a matter of fact, it's the first affair of this sort to be offered in these parts in quite a few moons.

Jackie Rodgers

It's a deep-seated affair, too, extending not only to the principals, but to their managers and followers as well.

Jackie Rodgers, local Negro featherweight, who for a time was a sensation with eight straight knockout triumphs to his credit, and Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington are the leather-slingers, who will do their stuff, and they will perform in the main bout of the next to last show of the season in Motor Square Garden. The show will get under way at 8:45 instead of at 8:30, in deference to daylight saving time.

LONG STANDING RIVALRY

The Rodgers-Dunn rivalry goes back a long way. Before Rodgers got into his winning stride he lost a couple of decisions to Dunn and Johnny got the idea he always could beat the dusky warrior. The latter, for his part, refused to risk another meeting with the New Kensington flash when he was popping 'em over, but recently both men have suffered reverses and things got around to the point where it was possible to match them again. The winner tonight will roost at the head of his division in these parts. They are fighting at 125 pounds, one pound less than the featherweight limit.

Both men finished off their training with a light workout yesterday and each says he is sound and on edge and will have no excuses to offer in the event of defeat. The bout will be a duel between Rodgers' ruggedness and punch and Dunn's boxing skill. Such a pairing generally makes for the most interesting sort of a bout.

M'TIERNAN BOXES SALA

A good preliminary card rounds out tonight's bill. In the eight-round semi-final, Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, goes against Lee Sala, of Donora, recently re-

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF SATURDAY: THE EYE LIFT—The Great Hindoo eye trick is an extraordinary feat. At the end of two ropes, to which the net containing the child is attached, are two hollow cups. These cups are affixed over the eyeballs of the juggler in such a manner that a vacuum is created. By rising up from a squatting position and bending over the load is lifted by the grip of the eyelids and the suction on the eyeballs. The strain on the eyes is terrific, and the juggler will not do this trick any more often than once every two weeks. THE BREATHING WELL—The Breathing Well, which is situated about two miles from the town of Great Valley, N. Y., "inhales" the air at the approach of fair weather and "exhales" (blows it out) when bad weather is impending. For that reason, it is watched with great interest and serves as a barometer. There seems to be no scientific explanation for the changes of air currents in the well and for its periodic violent activity.

TOMORROW: THE JOCKEY WHO WON THE SAME RACE TWICE ON THE SAME DAY

ENS BANQUET TOMORROW

Members of the New York and Pittsburgh teams will gather around the festive board at the Schenley Hotel tomorrow night, when Pirate fans pay tribute to Jewel Ens, manager of the local team.

The committee in charge of the testimonial dinner reports much interest in the affair, which is for both men and women.

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, May 5.—That Cleveland club is getting so good that Griff is calling on us for more margin. Still, Cleveland don't look good enough to me to be elected Miss Universe. You will notice the teams are close together in heavy traffic now. A week ago the Yankees were as far behind us as the back seat driver of a hook and ladder truck. Today we are all riding close together in one rumble seat. The law of gravity is being enforced in the National League to stop those Brooklyn Robins. They finally showed the Giants how to lose a game and they have got the hang of it now.

PIRATEPUZ INTRIGUES AUTHOR

Here is the Benchwarmer, who writes the inside on the doings of the Pirates exclusively for the readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, gone Piratepuz. He is seen working out one of the puzzles at Saturday's game at Forbes Field.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER.

Well, folks, I'm beginning to think there is only one league to play in and that's the big show. I came out of one of those autobus circuits that Johnny O'Connell calls "up and at'em leagues," because you ride all night and are at 'em all day.

Here I am now traveling around in Pullmans, getting a lower berth occasionally and riding back and forth from the stations in taxis. The other day a few of us got new suits given to us by a store. They picked out a few of us well-built birds that know how to wear duds. The suits sell for 37 berries and a half with two pair of pants, but the store figured we would get them some trade.

ON EASY STREET

Since I got that pay check I'm on Easy street and I'm open for all engagements. I've been to a couple of banquets already, but I haven't made any speeches yet. If they call on me at any of these affairs I'll make a few smart cracks, do a few card tricks I know and rip off a tune or two on the mouth-organ to get across.

I just foind out today that Jule, Pie and a few others tried to frame me at a banquet the other night. We went out to a suburb to give a banquet a little spice. They had it fixed to call on me for a speech and when I got up to pop off they was to ring the fire alarm and everybody was to rush out of the hall. Well, the town cutup got his signals crossed and he sounded the alarm just as Jule began his speech and that just about closed the evening. Jule might as well have been talking to Bill Klem about Bill missin' one for all the audience he had.

Game starts at 3:30.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Four red-letter days are on tap for Pirate fans with the Giants here for four clashes. It is circus time whenever the Giants are in town, but an added flavor surrounds the impending series owing to the fight for first place between the two clubs.

The Buccos are in undisputed possession of the honor position today as a result of the New York's setback in Cincinnati, but to hold to the topmost rung, the Freebooters must win the opener this afternoon.

The first clash is likely to bring a battle of southpaws. Larry French is ready to go back to the slab for the home team while Manager McGraw is expected to counter with Bill Walker.

About this time last year French threw the Giants back at the Polo Grounds in a 10-inning struggle. The next afternoon, Carl Hubbell, another southpaw, stole the show by pitching a no-hit game against the Pirates.

GIANT JOURNEY ROUGH

The Giants with only one series completed in the West have found the journey very rough. They lost two out of three to the Reds, who are not considered in the same class with the other three Western teams. On the other hand, the Rhinelanders generally give the New Yorkers a lot of trouble in Cincinnati.

In favor of the Men of McGraw it can be truthfully said that they are dangerous all the time. They jumped out in front at the start of the race as they lambasted the comparatively weaker Eastern teams, but regardless of the quality of the opposition, the Giants are fighters and therefore a big threat.

SHIFTS INFIELD

McGraw has made some changes in his infield and outfield, the most striking being at second base, where Eddie Marshall is performing. In the other three positions, the New York pilot has three of the best in the game.

Possession of first place may not mean much at this time of the season, but all managers agree that a victory is a victory at any time and a success in the spring-time may stand out in September. Holding to these beliefs, the managers try to impart to their athletes the necessity of winning as often as possible; hence the series starting today should be a dandy.

CUBS, REDS, MACKS AND YANKEES VICTORS

INDIANS DOWN RED SOX, GAIN LEAGUE LEAD

By COPELAND C. BURG,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 5.—In baseball's sunset, a 31-year-old player stands out today—a hefty, solid, oak-like man, silhouetted on the horizon of the game where youth counts most and a man past 35 is as conspicuous as an old maid at a wedding.

Charles D. Jamieson has been playing big league ball for more than 14 years and has figured in more than 1,500 games with a batting average of better than .300, but perhaps his knocking of the apple has never been such an important factor in a club's rise as this spring. In fact, his stick work appears to be the main reason why Cleveland tops the American League this morning.

Through April and into May he has been hitting when others did not and yesterday was not the exception. Jamieson merely homered in the ninth and scored two ahead of him, giving the Indians a chance to win out in the tenth over Boston, 8 to 7.

RUTH HITS HOMER

Another big hit-and-run man of the day was Babe Ruth, who clouted his third circuit blast of the season and the Yankees defeated the White Sox, 7 to 4. Pipgras shared in the glory, his hurling halting the Sox when Wells failed.

The frantic flock soared onward and landed in the first division of the National League by downing the Cards twice, 2 to 1, and 11 to 10, the second clash going 13 innings. Effective pitching by Phelps won the opener. In the nightcap, Frederick's double opened the scoring in the thirteenth and hits by Herman, Wright and Bissonette clinched the game for Brooklyn.

George (Mule) Haas uncorked a seventh-inning triple that gave Philadelphia the biggest part of a 7-to-1 victory over Detroit. It was the Athletic's fourth defeat of the Tigers.

BROWNS BEAT NATS

Though outhit, 10 to 7, the Browns bunched theirs in the second, scoring seven runs and winning from Washington, 8 to 6. Coffman went the route for the Browns, while the Solons used four pitchers.

Forty thousand Chicagoans saw a wild pitch by Koupal permit Danny Taylor to score as the Cubs won, 8 to 7, over the Phillies.

Jersey Joe Stripp played the part of a gay caballero and every time a Red got on base, Joe batted him in. Stripp obliged with a triple, a double and two singles and Cincinnati defeated the Giants, 8 to ..

Pittsburgh and Boston were not scheduled.

with Jim Mosolf, Foy Frazier and a few other kids. I parked a couple in the rightfield stands, but Jule didn't see them.

When I told him about it he cracked, "I guess somebody threw in a couple of golf balls about the time you went up there."

I felt like sayin' the visitin' teams was givin' us a lot of lessons on how to sock homers, but I kept my trap shut.

Jule says he thinks I'm a pretty good 10 o'clock hitter, but he'd hate to take a chance on me after 3:30 in the afternoon. He had me stopped on that one. Anyhow the Regulars won't let me go up there to hit in the afternoon practice.

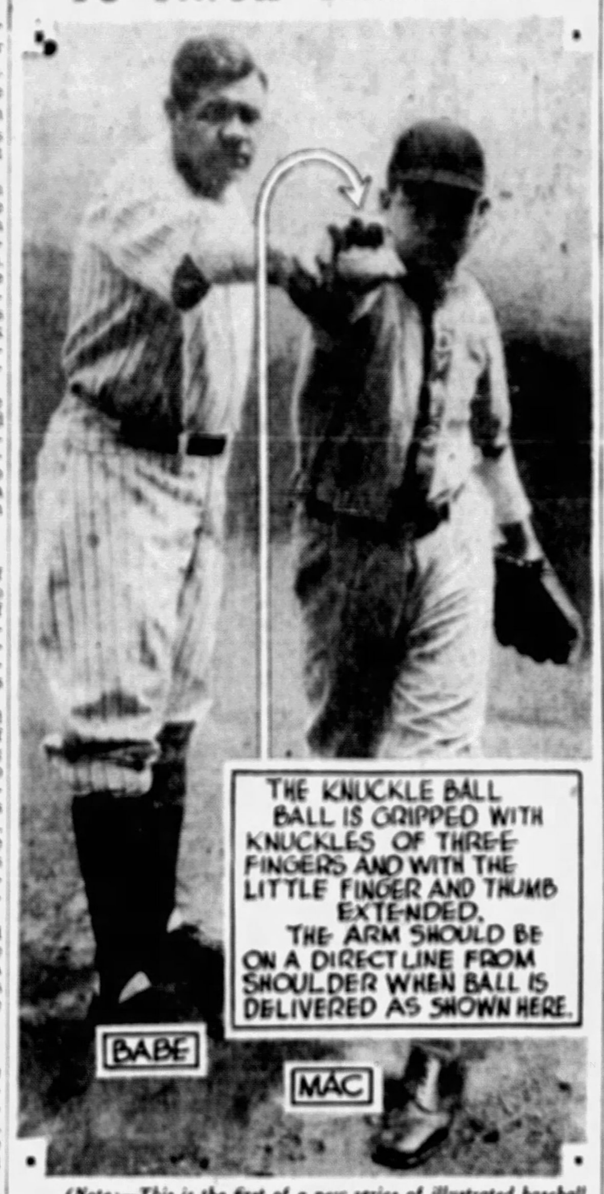
Babe Ruth Tells Boys How To Throw 'Knuckler'



(Note:—This is the first of a new series of illustrated baseball lessons arranged by Babe Ruth for the school and sandlot players. Others will follow at the rate of one a week.)

By BABE RUTH
Baseball's Highest Salaried Player

"I was watching Pipgrass warm up the other day," Mac said to me, "and he threw a ball up there that wobbled and dipped like the dickens. It didn't have much speed and it didn't spin, either, just sort of floated up to the plate. What was it?"

"That was a knuckler, or knuckle ball," I explained.

"How do you throw it?"

I laughed. "Listen, young fellow," I said, "you'd better get yourself some control and a good curve ball before you begin fooling with that knuckler. It's not easy. It's a tough ball to throw, and even tougher to control, particularly for a young kid. A youngster's fingers are too short and his hand too small to throw a good knuckle ball."

"Well, you show me. I bet I can learn it," Mac retorted.

WOBBLE IS NATURAL

The picture shows the result. Here's Mac and his knuckler. You will notice that the ball is gripped with the knuckles of the three fingers and with the little finger and thumb extended. The reason for using the knuckles is that thereby the fingers cover less surface of the ball and there is nothing to give the ball spin. That makes it float. The little finger and thumb are extended as an aid to control. They have nothing whatever to do with the flight of the ball or the "break," they simply give the pitcher a firmer grasp.

Incidentally, the wobble that Mac noticed isn't due to any snap of the wrist. It's a natural wobble that comes from pushing the ball without any spin. Any time you throw a ball without giving it a spin, the wobble is sure to come. You can prove that by dropping a ball from the top of a high building.

CONTROL MAIN FACTOR

You will notice that I have stopped Mac's hand just as the ball is pointed directly to the plate and the arm is on a direct line from the shoulder. That is to give control. It is from that spot that the ball must be delivered if you want it to go over the plate. From any other angle the knuckler will get out of control.

I don't believe the average youngster should attempt a knuckle ball, but they all do. And, if you are going to attempt a knuckle ball, remember that the big thing is to keep the ball from spinning. Use the form I've shown. And practice until you get perfect control. With control, a knuckle ball is a mighty valuable asset. Without control, it's a total loss, and the reason more big league pitchers haven't good knucklers is because they can't control them. It's a tough, tough pitch. For the average youngster, a good curve and fast one are a lot easier to get and a lot better to use.

Babe to Broadcast to Fans After His Next Home Run

A great treat is in store for the baseball radio fans of the entire United States. The New York Evening Journal has arranged for Babe Ruth to deliver a baseball message over the Columbia broadcasting chain.

The highest salaried athlete in the history of sport will make his speech before the microphone immediately following his next home run. It may happen immediately or it may be a week before the Babe socks one out of the park. But, if you stand by and watch for his next home run, you will be all set to tune in that very evening, around 8 o'clock. A definite hour cannot be given because of established radio schedules, which vary from night to night.

Watch for the flash on Babe's next home run and watch this paper for any additional information regarding his radio appearance.

Station WJAS is the Pittsburgh station on the Columbia chain.

Bob Osborn today is to be given a chance as a starting pitcher.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

There seems to be a sort of renaissance of collegiate baseball this year, and it is a fine thing. Baseball probably has more to offer to the college lad in the way of play, good fun and pleasant recreation than any other sport. However, college baseball will not have the interest and the numbers it once had until the American boy in the grade schools goes back and plays the game as he used to 15 and 20 years ago.

Knute Rockne

In the old days, baseball was the one game every boy played. Today golf, with its caddying opportunities, and the automobile have played havoc to such an extent that in some of our prep schools the candidates for the baseball team have to be taught the rules.

However, there are signs that youthful interest in baseball is on the upgrade. Last year a half-million boys played in leagues and tournaments sponsored by the American Legion. The number this year will be considerably larger.

With a little promotion by other agencies, particularly the high schools, there is no doubt that baseball can be made one of the finest and most popular games we have. The sport, however, needs encouragement and is deserving of it. It is a pastime any boy can play and in these days when educators demand athletics for everyone, particularly contests involving team play, here is the game that fills the bill.

NET STAR ILL WITH PLEURISY

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP.)—The Herald-Tribune says that Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., second ranking American woman tennis player, who is now in Europe preparing for the Wightman Cup matches, has been suffering severely from pleurisy and has been a semi-invalid ever since she reached the Continent.

Although no public statement has been made about Miss Jacobs' illness, the Herald-Tribune learned of it through a letter written by Miss Jacobs to a friend. For a long time the nature of the illness was not known and there was no apparent explanation for the defeats Miss Jacobs received in the Riviera tournaments.

BIG CROWD AT SCHENLEY

One of the largest crowds ever to play at the Schenley Park municipal links joined their pastimes as the golf season got under way there in full force. Thousand golfers played along with the local permit-holders, jamming the course even more. In some instances it took more than five hours to play the 18 holes.

WHAT INTEGRITY is to a public official, taste is to a cigarette—the one quality that wins and holds public confidence and esteem.

ON TASTE AND TASTE ALONE, Chesterfield continues to gain smokers, both men and women. Chesterfields are mild—not strong or harsh—yet they have richness of flavor and aroma. They are not insipid or tasteless.

WITNESS THE STEADY GROWTH in the popularity of Chesterfield—a popularity which proves that with smokers, as with us, it's "TASTE above everything".

Sandlot baseball comes into its own in the Pittsburgh district this evening when many of the local teams play municipal league and independent contests. Special ceremonies are booked prior to many of the contests. The league schedules will stand as arranged, with the exception of the Dormont-Homestead Acies contest. West Field, Homestead, has been in the hands of workmen and over the week-end the infield was dug up. Manager Jack Fertig did not feel like taking a chance on bringing a team of Dormont's class to that unfinished diamond.

The opening game in the West Penn League will be staged at Whitaker Wilmerding with the famous Eddie Artman in the line-up, will provide the opposition.

CENTRAL LEAGUE OPENS

In the Central circuit two games will be staged. With appropriate ceremony, the Y. M. H. A. will open with Fintex and seeing that Fintex is in fine stride, having downed the North Side Civics and the Pittsburgh Railways in warm-up games, it would appear that the Bellefield aggregation will have a tough evening. The other game finds Soho Board of Trade meeting the Coletta at Schenley High School field.

The City League also will have a celebration. J. L. Thomas and St. Johns open at Dean Field. This game will provide the fireworks for the Bloomfield fans. Some of the city officials have promised to attend and the ever popular J. L. Thomas will probably throw out the first ball. This game will give us a line on Pat O'Shea's outfit.

At Olympia Park Book Shoe and the Jimmy Smith aggregations will clash. Much interest will attend the first showing of the Shoemen. Ed Bova, it is reported, has corralled quite a flock of local talent. The Smiths will give the boys plenty to worry over.

SAINTS PLAY CIVICS

The Steel City League will flash two games. Observatory Civics will travel to Moultrie Park to meet St. Joachim's. The Saints are new members in the league, but it is reported that Father Faidel's club is strong so Meeder and his outfit will have a battle all the way.

The other game will find Anthony Demor taking his club to Arlington Park to meet Dom Mazzei. Dom Mazzei won its first practice game of the season. Since Harry Kennedy could not find the time to operate the Dispatch club, most of the players have joined Demor.

In the Minor League the L. F. Burkes travel to Avalon to meet the Archers and the Sankey Club takes on William Penn at Crafton Heights.

PLAY SUNDAY GAMES

Taking advantage of the perfect baseball weather sandlotters throughout Western Pennsylvania engaged in contests yesterday. The Jimmy Coaletta defeated Allison Park, 14-8; Immaculate Heart defeated Aliquippa, 6-2; the Duquesne Traders defeated Grandview, 11-8; the Sunset Club defeated the Stamin Club, 11-8; St. Clair Frogs defeated the Carsons, 11-0; the Rinker Dinks defeated the South Side Athletics, 9-2; the Morocco Cards defeated the Adams Juniors, 14-3, and the Greensburg Collegians lost to Fosterville, 14-8.

Maxie Arrives

MAX SCHMELING

Schmeling, German heavyweight champion, arrives with his dachsund for his bout with Jack Sharkey for the world title at the Yankee Stadium, New York, June 12.

MAXIE RETURNS HAILFELLOW WELL MET

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP.)—The well-dressed young man from Germany, Herr Max Schmeling is back in America today in happy quest of fistiana's richest prize, the heavyweight championship.

Looking more than ever like the Jack Dempsey of 10 years ago, the smiling young Teuton bowed his way into the United States yesterday through lanes of shouting countrymen, solid German citizens, and their fraus, who gathered 4,000 strong on the pier of the Liner New York. The air was filled with gutteral "Hochs!" and "Hurrah Mocks!" and the German youth was vastly pleased and considerably mauled before he could get away.

UNDERGOES CHANGE

The suave poised youth who chose deliberately to mix with the crowd rather than sneak ashore and avoid the cheering countrymen who must have risen at dawn to greet the early boat, was a strange contrast to the shy frightened youngster who shipped unannounced into New York for the first time two years ago.

With his German manager, $10 and 10 words of English between them, Schmeling then set out quietly to win a place among the top-ranking heavyweights. He knocked out Joe Monte, beat Joe Sekyra and became an overnight sensation by toppling rugged Johnny Risko. Then he whipped Paulino Uscudun, became entangled in controversies with managers and promoters and sailed disgustedly for home.

Now he is back to fight Jack Sharkey in the Yankee Stadium, June 12, for the heavyweight title that has been vacant since Gene Tunney retired two years ago. He carried 19 pieces of luggage with him this trip, several companions, German newspapermen, a dachshund pup, and a half dozen cuckoo clocks that caught his eye one day in a shop in Berlin.

SARTORIAL KNOCKOUT

It is the personal improvement in Schmeling, however, that is so noticeable. He shakes hands and mixes with all the aplomb and self-assurance of Dempsey, most popular of all champions, talks freely and excitedly in fairly good English, and is interested in every one and everything. The single suit and plain shirts, some of brown khaki, have been replaced by 20 tailored ensembles that run tastefully from light and dark grays down three blues and browns. He is a sartorial picture.

Schmelling appeared to be in perfect condition, tanned a dark brown, and weighing 190 pounds, as compared with his fighting weight, 187. He had a pleasant trip across and trained every day. After becoming acclimated—a word he struggled with until he finally mastered it—he will leave Tuesday for his training camp at Johnson City, near Binghamton, N. Y., to start light training with a half dozen sparring partners.

Max says he will beat Sharkey—how he won't know until he gets in the ring. A year's layoff won't hurt him because he is only 24 and has boxed 104 rounds of exhibitions since whipping Paulino here last June. He is excited about his brief career as a movie hero in a German picture, but doesn't plan to appear in another. If he whips Sharkey he wants to defend his title against Dempsey here in September, and, if the old Man Mauler stays in retirement, he will tackle the best man available.

RESEMBLES DEMPSEY

Max is not enthusiastic about fighting in Germany and does not believe that Europe is ready for the heavyweight extravaganzas America is accustomed to stage. He is very serious about the fact that he is the first German ever to fight for the big prize—to challenge for the heavyweight crown in modern ring times.

With his managerial troubles a thing of the past, Schmeling is an affable, friendly person, a remarkable likeness to the high cheek-boned, dark-browed, dynamic Dempsey, and promises to be a popular fighter. He will be 25 years old on September 28.

"Put the date in," he said. "Maybe I get some presents from someone."

BAT BATTALINO SIGNED FOR MEYERS BOWL

The enlarged Meyers Bowl in North Braddock will open its gates for the outdoor boxing season Thursday night of next week with a world champion as one of the principals in its main bout.

Bat Battalino

Announcement was made this morning by matchmaker Julius Beck that the club has signed Batting Battalino, featherweight titleholder, as its inaugural attraction. His opponent will be named in a day or two. He may or may not be the winner of tonight's Johnny Dunn-Jackie Rodgers bout at Motor Square Garden.

It is the intention of the Bowl to show as many topliners as possible during the season.

Entry List Grows For Turtle Races

Four hundred Pittsburghers have entered turtles in the two day meet to be held at Duquesne Garden on the evenings of May 30 and 31. Among the out-of-town entries is Texas Gusher, of Bliss, Okla., entered by Col. George W. Miller of Miller Bros. 101 Ranch. Sleeper, an entrant from Marland, Okla., was clocked turning in the fast time of 30 feet in 35 seconds flat.

All of the races will be a distance of 75 feet from the center of a circle, having a 75 foot radius. The turtles will start from the center of a huge cage-like starting device. Four judges and four timekeepers will tally the time of the first five turtles to cross the line. The five turtles having the fastest time in each heat will qualify for the Terrapin Derby, final race of the evening.

George Lott Stars In Cup Workouts

PHILADELPHIA, May 5.—(AP.)—George M. Lott, of Chicago, was the outstanding figure at the formal opening yesterday of the new Davis Cup tennis court at the Philadelphia Country Club, where the standard bearers of the United States and Canada will meet on May 15, 16 and 17.

Lott performed at his best in vanquishing Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex., 6-0, 6-1, and followed this by sharing in a doubles triumph with Fritz Mercur, of Bethlehem, Pa., over John Van Ryn, of East Orange, N. J., and Allison, 6-4, 6-2.

Chicago Sandlotter Dies After Game

CHICAGO, May 5.—(INS.)—The first fatality of the baseball season was recorded here today. Fred Husser, 32, collapsed on his way home from playing a game of ball yesterday. He died before a physician could arrive. The cause was given as heart failure induced by over-exertion in the game.

Judgment Filed Against Kearns, Hays

LOS ANGELES, May 15.—(AP.)—A judgment for $10,800 against Jack Kearns, manager of boxers, and Teddy Hayes, trainer for Kearns' fighters, was on file in Superior Court yesterday. It was returned by Judge Harry Archbold after trial of a suit revolving about an automobile accident in 1925, brought by Edward S. Ryan and Lester R. Gates.

Ryan and Gates said they were injured when Kearns' car struck their automobile and forced it into a ditch. The case twice was reopened to allow presentation of new evidence. Gates was given $5,000 and Ryan $5,800.

NO. 32.
BILLY KANE.
Riverside Golf Club, Cambridge Springs.

About 24 years ago a sorrel-topped lad, a little bit freckled, as titian-haired boys often are, applied for work as a caddie at the Philadelphia Country Club, down East. That lad was Billy Kane, now pro at the Riverside Golf Club, Cambridge Springs. Billy caddied until he became proficient at the game, and then he was given a job in the shop by the club's pro, Jim Thompson. He worked at clubmaking with Billy Moir, present clubmaker and assistant pro at Edgewood, and former Shannopin and Conneaut Lake instructor. Soon enough Kane was given the job as assistant to Thompson, a role he played for nine years. In 1919 he became professional at Shawnee-on-the-Delaware, staying there until 1922, when he went with a Philadelphia department store. During the latter part of the season, however, he quit to become pro at the Pottsville Country Club, sticking it out there through the 1923 season, after which he sold sports equipment on the road for 15 months. Billy became pro at Riverside in 1924 and in the time he has been there he has made many friends in Western Pennsylvania. The late Charley Rowe assisted in bringing him to Cambridge Springs. During the last five winters he has given indoor instructions at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association here.

JAYHAWKERS' MARKS BEST OF RELAYS

By JESS CARVER.

Ohio State's seventh annual relay carnival officially brought to a close the season of collegiate relays, that period of some six weeks which annually stands the boys on their respective ears and the spectators on their own and other people's feet. There are four major relays each year, the Penn, Drake, Kansas and Ohio State, in order of their age.

Ed Hamm

Then there are two in the South, the Georgia Tech games and the Rice Institute carnival, but so seldom do these events produce an outstanding record that they fail to rank with the others.

In fact, only one southern athlete figures in the best mark tabulation at all, that being Jumping Eddie Hamm, of Georgia Tech, who sailed 25 feet 4¼ inches at Penn.

The 8-year-old Kansas Relays this year took the play away from the rest. Kansas showed superior results in five events, Drake in four, Ohio State in three and the older Pennsylvania games in two. No world records were broken in any of the 14 events represented on all four programs. Following we have the events in which each surpassed:

KANSAS.

Event.	Winner.	Mark.
120-yd. high hurdles	Seltzman, Ill.	0:14 6-10

TECH MARKS LEAD

Carnegie Tech's fourteenth annual Interscholastic track and field meet, held Saturday, won honors over the two-year old Geneva affair, the week previous. Eight of the marks made at Carnegie were improvements on those at Geneva, while two were the equal. Geneva won two events, but in both cases, the victor was also the winner at Tech. Following are the marks held by each meet.

Carnegie—220-yard dash, Fleming, Westinghouse, :21 1-10; mile run, Walker, Sabon, 4:41; high hurdles, Bradley, Connellsville, 16 5-10 feet; low hurdles, Bradley, Connellsville, 15 8-10 feet; javelin, Van Tassenaer, East Fallowfield, 171 feet 5 inches; discus, Rabenaldo, Youngstown Chaney, 118 feet ½ inch; high jump, Gilchrist, Scott, 6 feet 1½ inches; shot put, Haney, South Hills, 44 feet 4 inches; pole vault, Lowery, Scott, 11 feet 10½ inches.

Geneva—440-yard run, Stearn, Stephenville, :52; broad jump, Boddender, Grove City, 21 feet 8½ inches.

Tie—100-yard dash, Pryor, Ford City, at Geneva, and Bohlender, Grove City, at Tech. Time, :10 seconds. Half mile, Duncan, Connellsville, at Tech, and McMurdo, Elwood City, at Geneva. Time, 2:01 1-5 seconds.

The Tipoff

John McGraw, the one-man act of the National League, is intruding his portly silhouette into the local spotlight today. John and his Giants are at Forbes Field. Please don't feed the animals peanuts.

McGraw hasn't won a National League pennant for so long that they are thinking of cutting down the flagpole at the Polo Grounds and sawing it up for firewood. If the Giants can take this series with the Bucs, they'll be back in first place and well on their way to a mighty desired championship.

The Giants rolled along like a bowling ball down hill in their first seven games. They won 'em all and then the Brooklyn Robins sidetracked them. Since then they have just been another ball club . . . tough but takeable.

McGraw runs the club from the bench, as the legend goes. If he does, the Robins must have stood the water cooler in front of Jawn.

The last time McGraw appeared at Forbes Field last year, he wore white socks with five red stripes. He signalled his pitchers by pulling up his trousers, one stripe at a time.

The first stripe gave the pitcher the office to throw one high on the outside. The second meant a low curve. The third was the sign for a fast one. The fourth meant to waste one.

He used the fifth when Paul Waner was up with the bases full. It meant to throw and duck.

Young Mel Ott, who has been 21 years old since eggs were cheap, is another colorful piece of the Giants' baggage. Mel's chief delight is to take two strikes and then park the next one in the right field stands. He always aims for the seats with odd numbers.

The Giants had the silent Lefty O'Doul with 'em two years ago. McGraw said he couldn't stay on the payroll because he couldn't hit left handers. So he was buried with the Phillies.

In the first series between the Phils and Giants last year, against lefthand pitching, O'Doul smacked out three long hits. Then he paraded past the Giants' dugout, and without looking in, cracked:

BUCK M'TIERNAN

McTiernan, Swissvale middleweight, who recently defeated Johnny Pial, following a long layoff because of illness, continues his comeback campaign against Lee Sala, of Donora, in the eight-round semi-final at Motor Square Garden tonight and has been signed to meet Young Saylor, of Charleroi, in the main bout in the same ring next Monday night.

RODGERS BOXES DUNN TONIGHT

turned from a campaign around New York and in New England. McTiernan already is matched to fight Young Saylor, of Charleroi, in the main bout of the final show in the Garden next Monday night and will have to win impressively tonight to make that battle stand up.

Tommy Ward, of the South Side, and Teddy Welch, of McKeesport, welters, box the second bout and Mose Butch, of Oakland, national junior amateur bantamweight champion, makes his professional debut against Jackie Wilson, Negro, of the East End, in the six-round opener.

Between Rounds

One other boxing show is scheduled in Western Pennsylvania tonight, at the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, in the main bout of which Phil Tobias, Brooklyn flyweight, will engage Izzy Rubin, Akron, over 10 rounds. Palacio Filipino, boxes Dave Clough Bradley, of Holyoke, Mass., Jimmy Thomas, local Negro bantamweight with a punch, meets Joe Baker, of Erie, in a return bout in the semi-final.

Two champions appear in non-title bouts tonight, Battling Battalino, the featherweight ruler, meeting Lew Massey in a return bout in Philadelphia and Benny Bass, junior lightweight champion, taking on Cecil Combs at Little Rock, Ark. Steve Rocco defends his Canadian flyweight title against Frenchy Belanger in a 15-rounder at Toronto.

Sylvan Bass, Baltimore welterweight, wants to break in here. In his most recent bouts he has beaten Pat Haley, Marty Collins, Joe Scottolo, Al Walters and Cliff Wellows. He also has boxed, among others, Ray Mitchell, Frankie Carbo, Andy Allen, Gene Morrell, Young Hetchel, Harry (Kid) Wallace, Nick Barbiano, Bobby Amster, Battling Willard, K. O. Lutzy, Frankie Hayes, Georgie Levine, Tommy Murphy, Harry Rice and Gene Buffalo. Max Waxman, former manager of Joe Dundee, then welterweight champion, is his manager. Vince Dundee is a stablemate of Bass.

The closing show at Motor Square Garden next Monday night will be an all-star affair in every sense of the word. In addition to the McTiernan-Saylor windup, Benny Schwartz likely will box Frisco Grande, the Filipino, Gorge Parks, Homestead heavyweight, will be in with a suitable opponent and Tom Maico will meet Young Rudy.

Women Basketball Officials Elect

Miss Margaret McClenahan, of Pitt, has been elected president of the Pittsburgh Board of Women's Basketball Officials. Other officers were elected as follows: Miss Mary Bigham, Parnassus High School, vice president; Miss Bess Oyer, South Hills High School, secretary; Miss Jean Muter, treasurer.

Miss Dorothy Joyce, of Peabody High School, was appointed chairman of examinations by Miss McClenahan.

ANOTHER NIGHT GAME

NEW CASTLE, Pa., May 5.—New Castle High School football team will start spring training next Friday night when it plays Youngstown Chaney in a practice game.

MRS. THOMPSON TO PLAY FOR SEARS CUP

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

Announcement from Philadelphia to the effect that trials for the Middle Atlantic States Sears Cup team will be staged for women racquet stars of the sectional association at the Germantown Cricket Club the week of May 26 evokes the news that Mrs. DeLloyd Thompson, Washington, Pa., ace and former Western Pennsylvania champion, has joined the P. A. A. and will probably represent the Winged Head not only in the trophy tests, but in much major competition throughout the summer as well.

Mrs. Thompson has not appeared in a West Penn event since 1926, but she has carried off numerous laurels in Eastern tournaments and will no doubt enter the forty-second W. Pa. affair slated to get under way at Stanton Heights here on June 21.

PITT, BEARS TO CLASH

Although official notice has not yet been given out, it is understood that the crack University of California tennis crew will stop off in Pittsburgh on or about June 4 to engage Dr. Billy McElroy's mighty Pitt array in one of the most significant intercollegiate fracases of the year.

The Golden Bears, with a flock of nationally famous talent on their roster, are one of the few teams in the country capable of providing interesting opposition for the powerful O'Loughlin-Jacobs Panther delegation. The joust will in all likelihood be played on grass, either at the Allegheny Country Club, at Fox Chapel, or at Longue Vue. It should be worth traveling to behold.

Tomorrow afternoon, the Carnegie Tech court outfit will invade Little Washington for a return encounter with W. & J. The Presidents have not looked especially impressive in debates to date, but Boyd, their first man, is a performer of genuine ability and should flash true form now that more settled weather appears to have arrived.

DUKES FACE TEST

Meanwhile Grant Siverd's Dukes, fresh from triumph over a rather inexperienced Waynesburg contingent, are diligently at work to repel the Geneva invader of the Bluff on Wednesday. The Covenanters, headed by the hard-hitting Johnny Hecker, loom menacingly to retain Tri-State Conference laurels and the Bluffites despite the marked improvement exhibited by the Smeaton boys, Bullion, Boland, Campbell, and Casey, will be forced to strike tip-top stride to annex victory.

Tomorrow evening at the P. A. A., the first annual Pittsburgh Tennis Association smoker and buffet supper will be staged with all Steel City netmen and their friends invited to attend. An excellent program of entertainment, musical and otherwise, has been arranged by Chairman J. Howard Moore and his aids, Frank Smith, Walter Flood, Wilbur Parshley, and Dr. Kirkpatrick. It is certain that a large throng will be on hand to start off P. T. A. summer activity with the well known crash.

Rockne to Inspect His Gridders Friday

ROCHESTER, Minn., May 5.—(AP.)—Knute Rockne, the sick coach of Notre Dame, has so far recovered that he will be permitted to go to South Bend, Ind., Friday and watch his football team in its final spring workouts.

He will return to Rochester in June, however, where he can be under constant observation the greater part of the summer as a safeguard against spreading of the blood clot in his right leg, an ailment that has kept him in a wheel chair since last fall.

Rockne is now able to walk without the aid of crutches and looks surprisingly well for a man who has been through such a long siege of illness.

Dr. C. J. Barborka, of the Mayo Clinic, his attendant physician, said the infection in his leg was not caused by bruises received while giving his football players personal instruction in tackling and blocking, but was due to an internal condition.

Edith Cross Starts For Net Wars Abroad

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—(INS.)—Headed for the tennis wars in Europe, Miss Edith Cross will leave here tonight for Boston, whence she will sail May 16.

William J. (Mike) Canavan, inspector clerk of the State Athletic Commission, is getting ready for that big vacation . . . It will consist of an automobile trip to the Coast and back, accompanied by Mrs. Canavan . . . They will leave at the end of this month, to be gone for several months. Mike having obtained a leave of absence from his main position in the delinquent tax collector's office . . . Mike and the missus will take in all of the points of interest en route, including Yellowstone Park . . . Mike resides at Corliss Station . . .

Mike Canavan

He is one of the most popular officials of the boxing board, and one of the most capable, too, and it goes without saying that his many friends wish him a most enjoyable jaunt . . . Don't let Buff Donnelli, husky football and soccer star of Duquesne University, know who told you, but it's a fact that he has gone in for (of all things!) tennis, and is very good at it for a beginner . . . Paul Sullivan, our racquets expert, says Boof sports a wicked forehand drive . . . Herb McCracken, Lafayette College football coach, is going to conduct a one-week coaching course for high and prep school coaches at Lafayette, which is located at Easton, Pa., June 9 to 14 . . . It will be his fifth series of summer lectures of this nature . . . Ray Foutts, of Wellsville, O., manager of the pair, says the Pittsburgh fans never have seen his two proteges, Ted Yarosz and Freddie Edwards, at their best. . .He is all wrapped up in their futures . . . Yarosz won two battles last week, one over Young Rudy at Little Washington and the other over Joe Corelli, a substitute, at the Moose Temple, while Edwards handed out a beating to Jackie Herman, of Wheeling, his last time out . . . At the rate they are progressing, what with playing that 3-3 tie in the national amateur final here last Saturday, the soccerists ought to get their season over some time this year . . . Johnny Ridge, Nate Leff's partner in the promotion of boxing shows at Duquesne Garden, says he is through bankrolling shows in those quarters . . . Leff may make an attempt to go it alone for another show or two, but is none too sanguine about his chances of success with the warm weather here and the meager turnouts for his two recent offerings . . . Doc Quailey is in a hospital awaiting an operation, which is sad news for his many friends . . . Hans Steinke and Dick Shikat, two mighty German-born wrestlers, meet in an elimination test in New York tonight. It is to be hoped they have not been kept in the dark as to which should win . . . Burleigh Grimes wants to know if any one was killed in the wreck . . . Those Giants are here today to tussle with the Pirates for first place . . . As the average Pittsburgh fan says on such an occasion, "Booh, booh! Razzberries, you Giants!"—HARRY KECK.

BUCCOS, GIANTS CLASH TODAY

fighting under severe handicaps, but they have been able to win consistently since the season opened, and they are not going to be affrighted because the Giants are in town.

The Pittsburgh management yesterday announced that Outfielder Foy Frazier had been sent to the Newark club of the International League under option.

FRAZIER TO NEWARK

Frazier signed with the Buccos this spring at Paso Robles, after he had purchased his release from the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League. The fleet athlete did not care to play for Oakland, and, as Scout Joe Devine thinks he has a bright future, he was picked off by the Freebooters as soon as he became a free agent. He is a lefthanded thrower and hitter.

Outfielder Lloyd Waner, who was ordered to Baltimore for special treatment, has entered the Union Memorial Hospital of that place, instead of Johns Hopkins, as first reported. Physicians of the first-named institution have started a series of examinations with a view of determining the cause of his sickness.

MARKET STORM APPARENTLY BLOWS OVER

List Highly Irregular Early but Many Shares Show Gains by Midday

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP.)—The storm of liquidation that upset the stock market late last week apparently blew itself out over the week-end. Although the forenoon trading today evinced considerable irregularity, the price range was relatively narrow and only in isolated instances did important stocks sell as low as on Saturday.

Scattered liquidation pushed several score issues to new minimums, but the recessions were mostly of a fractional order and embraced principally the copper and low-priced shares.

The early declines ran from 2 to 10 points in a number of specialties, but these were largely retrieved later and toward midday leaders like American Telephone, General Electric, American Can, United States Steel, Westinghouse Electric were selling 2 to 4 points above the previous close. Paramount Publix was up 5, Eastman Kodak 6 and Vanadium Steel 7. The tape was slightly more than half an hour behind the market.

Call money renewed at 3½ per cent.

ANACONDA'S NET $7.83 A SHARE

NEW YORK, May 5.—The Anaconda Copper Mining Company and subsidiaries including Chile Copper Company, Andes Copper Mining Company and Greene Cananea Copper Company, for year ended December 31, 1929, report net income of $69,155,729 after taxes, interest, depreciation, proportion accruing to minority interests and after charging off $4,680,867 discount and interest paid on bonds redeemed August 1, last, by funds received from stock subscriptions. This is equivalent to $7.83 a share (par $50) on 8,828,063 shares of capital stock outstanding at end of year. For year ended December 31, 1928, Anaconda Copper Mining Company, Andes Copper Mining Company, and Greene Cananea Copper Company reported net income of $24,374,780, or $6.62 a share on 3,643,611 shares of stock.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, May 5.—Influenced by downturns at Liverpool, wheat prices here averaged lower early today, with May touching a new bottom price record for the season. Favorable crop reports concerning domestic winter wheat tended to give an advantage to the bear side of the market. Opening at ⅛c off to ⅛c up, Chicago wheat afterward underwent a general sag, but then rallied somewhat. Corn and oats were also easy, with corn starting at ⅜c decline to an equal advance and subsequently receding a little. Provisions held steady.

Kansas dispatches today reported wheat crops improving steadily, and particular emphasis was given to rains over the week-end all through the southwest section of the state. Meanwhile, Nebraska reports said wheat was showing a good stand and color, with the plants nearly all jointing, and expected to be heading soon. On each ⅛c decline, however, the Chicago market appeared to be receiving considerable buying support, and sellers showed themselves disinclined to become aggressive with the market hovering close to a dollar-per-bushel level.

News that locust infestation in Southern Europe had spread to Rumania attracted notice here, but failed to act as a check on wheat price declines. There were also advices that the amount of wheat on ocean passage had decreased 496,000 bushels. On the other hand world shipments were much larger than a week ago.

LONE STAR GAS SLUMPS AND RALLIES

Initial Selling Forces Stock Back Six Points Before Support Appears

Heavy selling in Lone Star Gas at the opening of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today forced that issue down 6 points to a level approximately 15 points from its high of two weeks ago, but the reaction attracted strong spurt which rallied the price about 3 points almost immediately.

Aside from technical conditions arising out of the recent declines in all markets, there was no explanation of sharp dip. Impaired margin selling was probably a factor and it was thought the Saturday announcement of a stock dividend of one share for seven, to be paid to holders of record February 2, 1931, brought additional offerings on the theory that the good news was out, to that date, at least. Several days prior to the stock dividend announcement, the company declared "rights" on the stock, giving holders of record May 31, 1930, the privilege of purchasing additional shares at $22.50 each on the basis of one for six.

The general tendency in the market here was downward in the early dealings. Blaw Knox opened off 2½ points and Arkansas was off 1¾, but in neither case was there evidence of pronounced selling pressure. The explanation was that buying orders throughout the market had been withdrawn pending settlement of the present disturbed trading conditions.

Is Wall Street Overdoing Its Stock Dumping?

By B. C. FORBES

THE ORIGINAL Rothschild was giving out buying orders right and left for securities when a friend rushed up excitedly to him and exclaimed:

"Don't you know the streets of Paris are running with blood?"

Rothschild's reply was:

"If the streets of Paris were not running with blood I would not be able to buy securities at these bargain prices."

This incident is commended to those who have been stampeded into dumping stocks on the market during the last few days at crumbling prices.

A MONTH and more ago the writer sounded a warning that Wall street's pace had become unwarrantedly rapid, that stock quotations were too violently outrunning business recovery and that a setback would be logical. It was added, however, that if and when prices underwent pruning, the most powerful interesters in the country would become extensive buyers.

Well the setback has come with a vengeance. On the New York Stock Exchange, 25 representative industrial issues fell eight points on Thursday and nine points on Friday, and 11 points on Saturday when demoralization broke loose in the heaviest selling ever witnessed on a Saturday.

Indications are that much of the latest avalanche of selling came from heavy weight professional speculators. It is known that certain very aggressive bulls switched to the bear side. This has emboldened other bears to become much more daring. The probability is that the short account is at this moment larger than at any other time this year.

MY GUESS is that the market has become oversold and that a sharp rally will be witnessed. On Saturday there was some buying from very influential and conservative sources.

Whether the next recovery will mark the definite turning of the market upwards cannot be foretold. Sounder judgment will be possible as events of the current week unfold.

Meanwhile, it obviously is shortsighted for any person who was content to hold stocks at much higher prices to dump them on the market at the much lower levels now ruling. The time to sell is when others are clamoring to buy, not when others lose their heads.

NOTHING HAPPENED outside of Wall street to cause any sudden switching of sentiment. The most significant events of last week, indeed, were favorable rather than unfavorable.

The simultaneous lowering of the bank rates in Paris, London and New York to extraordinarily low levels naturally makes for still easier money, and easier money is a powerful speculative tonic. True, brokers' loans last month expanded slightly more than $400,000,000, swelling the expansion in three months to over a billion dollars. However, gold has poured into the county this year in volume sufficient to expand credit far more than the increase in brokers' loans. Commercial borrowing is extremely light. The federal reserve bank's ratio of reserve actually rose last week and, at 82½ per cent is more than 9 per cent above a year ago.

There assuredly is nothing in either home of foreign monetary conditions to precipitate demoralizing liquidation of stocks. Money rates closed the week at the lowest of the year.

TURNING FROM money to business, developments are reasonably encouraging. President Hoover's address was distinctly optimistic—although, of course, what he had to say would have carried more weight had he issued a clear-cut warning when the country was palpably riding for a fall last year. His assurances that the worst is over can be accepted without question.

The most gratifying development is the lessening of unemployment. The current month is depended upon to bring more substantial improvement. Irregularity is still the keynote of American industry, some industries are doing better, others are hardly holding their own. Retail trade is described as somewhat more active.

ADMITTEDLY, prosperity is returning painfully slowly. One potent retarding influence has been the acute unsettlement in the market value of major farm products. Wheat again dipped within a fraction of a dollar a bushel in Chicago. Commodity prices, as a whole have again sagged and according to certain compilations, are now lower than at any time since the war. Here, too, however, it is possible that pessimism has been overdone.

THE FINANCIAL world is awaiting, not without anxiety, the impending experiment of issuing German reparation bonds, probably towards the end of this month. The latest reports indicate that America's share of the $300,000,000 total will be considerably less than the $100,000,000 originally mentioned. The less the allotment the better, because our international bankers would do well to go slowly, because if by any chance their elaborate arrangements to market these bonds here were to prove disastrous, the effect upon the whole security market and even upon the sentiment might be most unfortunate.

We need helpful, not harmful action from all responsible sources in this country in order that our still lamentably large army of unemployed be given opportunity to earn their bread.

But this is no time to sell America short.

Gasoline Stocks Decline in April

Despite the increased operations at refineries in the past few weeks, progress is being made in reducing gasoline storage. On the basis of weekly reports for April, the month should show a larger reduction in gasoline storage than the 1,190,000 barrels taken out in April last year.

American Petroleum Institute report for last week indicates that refineries representing 95.6 per cent of the refining capacity of the country reduced their reserves of gasoline by 265,000 barrels, having a total of 53,212,000 barrels on hand April 26. This followed a reduction of 431,000 barrels in the preceding week, an increase of 100,000 barrels in week ended April 12 and a decline of 931,000 barrels in week of April 5. Thus there has been a net decrease of 1,527,000 barrels in the gasoline storage at these refineries in the four weeks since March 29.

Money Rate Lowered to Stimulate Business Recovery

The real purpose of the lowering of the official money rate, that is the rediscount rate, is and always has been to stimulate business recovery. While the change may not be immediately effective in that direction, it is bound to have the desired effect in the long run, if precedent holds. Lowering of official money rates is never intended to bolster the speculative market, yet it invariably has just that effect and in all probability will carry the same influence in this instance. Though business may not be all that had been expected earlier in the year, it is safe to assume that the bottom of the decline has been passed. Seasoned investment stocks are seemingly bound to benefit from lower money rates which makes them more attractive, and there does not appear to be any reason for anxiety over the ability of well managed companies to maintain their positions.

The further expansion of $407,000,000 in borrowings of its members reported by the Stock Exchange as of the close of April was not conducive to resumption of bullish activities. This increase brought the total expansion for March and April to $896,000,000, indicating a more rapid requisitioning of credit by the stock market than at an time previous, with the single exception of the two months' period, August-September, last year. The increase in total loans for those two months was $1,076,000,000, which brought the record peak for such borrowing as of September 30 at $8,549,282,979. In the subsequent decline the loan total fell to $3,984,768,065 on January 31, last, and as of April 30 it has risen $1,078,362,294 from the recent low point.

One of the leading wire houses in the street which turned from its temporarily bearish stand on the market just a few days ago to a definitely bullish attitude, regards the market as being distinctly in a buying range. It lists the following issues as the stocks which will lead the upturn, namely, U. S. Steel, General Motors, American Can, General Electric, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Radio and Consolidated Gas of New York.

This group of stocks has shown consistent growth in recent years with the total consumption of cigarets representing a gain of 12.3 per cent over the total in the previous year. Reflecting the substantial sales expansion, earnings of the principal producers increased markedly despite large advertising expenditures. Aggregate income surpassed by a sizeable margin that for 1928, and the outlook is for further gains in both sales and profits during the current year. With the price situation comparatively satisfactory, most of the leading manufacturers should in 1930 experience record breaking incomes. Leading tobacco stocks which are in line for better market levels in the near future, include American Tobacco, Liggett and Myers and Reynolds Tobacco.

Chemical Stocks is another list of issues which the financial district professes to see a definite forward trend. The first quarterly results for this year show that the industry as a whole is making progress in the face of subnormal general business conditions. Stocks in this group which should warrant attention include Air Reduction, Allied Chemical and Dye, Mathieson Alkali, Union Carbide and Carbon, and Columbian Carbon.

Presidential optimism, rediscount rate reductions and other constructive factors which ordinarily resulted in sharp rallies in the stock market in times gone by have been completely ignored during the current phase of the stock market. Time and again during the Coolidge regime optimistic reports issued by the spokesman at the White House had a beneficial effect on stock prices. It is significant to note that not in a long time has Secretary of the Treasury Mellon voiced his opinion on the future course of prices. Doubtless the constructive element would welcome a few words from Mr. Mellon at this time.

AMERICAN ICE EARNINGS LOWER

Unfavorable Weather Is Factor in Cutting Down First Quarter's Profits

BOSTON, May 5.—The decrease in American Ice Company's earnings for the first quarter of this year was due to unfavorable weather conditions and a highly competitive situation in certain parts of its territory. Net income before depreciation and taxes was $230,249, against $338,007 in 1929. Owing to the seasonal nature of the ice business it is the policy of the company to report earnings after depreciation and taxes only at the close of the year.

During the first quarter of 1930—always the poorest of the year—the average temperature in the leading cities served by the company was some five degrees below normal. The unfavorable condition continued throughout April. There has been some improvement in the competitive situation which had brought about a cut in the retail price.

1929 RECORD YEAR

It has only been in recent years, with increased operating efficiency and the entrance of the company into the retail distribution of coal, that operations for the first quarter have been in the black.

The showing for the March, 1929, quarter was the best for any comparable period on record. Net income for the full year of $3,431,124 was also the best in the company's history. On the 600,000 common shares balance after preferred dividends was equal to $4.21 a share. In 1928 net was $3,252,361 or $3.92 a share and in 1927, $2,651,090 or $2.92 a share. The foregoing earnings are after liberal charges for depreciation and maintenance, amounting to $2,368,534 in 1929, $2,394,899 in 1928 and $1,992,356 in 1927.

83 ICE PLANTS

American Ice is now an artificial ice manufacturer. At present it operates 83 modern and efficient plants serving such centers as Boston, New York, Newark, Philadelphia, Camden, Atlantic City, Baltimore and Washington. Operations are currently at the rate of about 65 per cent capacity.

With the months just ahead the most profitable of the year, reaching a peak in the September quarter, the management is optimistic. Given a normal year no difficulty is anticipated in covering the $3 annual common dividend. The policy of "extras" this year will be determined largely by the results for the full year. A $1 extra was paid in January out of earnings for 1929, bringing total declarations last year to $3.50 a share.

COPPER BUYING AT LOW EBB

NEW YORK, May 5.—Expectation of a further price reduction in copper checked buying by both foreign and domestic consumers during the week. Second-hand metal is offered at concessions of ½ to 1 cent without attracting business. Failure of the recent reduction to the 14-cent level to create sufficient demand is believed to have led to agitation for an additional cut. Export business has tapered off to an almost negligible volume.

Tin prices were at new lows for the year with an increase in the world's visible supply for the month of March well above estimates. Consuming demand was good for a time early in the week.

Despite the decline in prices abroad and the weakness of the metal situation generally, lead prices averaged unchanged. Demand was not good, however, with consumers waiting developments.

Zinc was slightly easier in a quiet market, producers were not pressing sales, however.

Demand continued very quiet for antimony and prices ruled a trifle easier.

APRIL FREIGHT LOADINGS

CHICAGO, May 5.—Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway handled 147,085 revenue freight cars during April, against 152,749 like 1929 month.

Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville Railroad handled 22,059 revenue freight cars during April, against 25,084 in like month of 1929.

Wabash Railway handled 82,559 cars of revenue freight in April, against 85,791 cars in April, 1929.

Chicago and Eastern Illinois handled 30,370 revenue freight cars during April, against 34,458 like month of 1929.

Chicago, Burlington and Quincy handled 139,745 revenue freight cars during April, against 148,299 in like month of 1929.

Illinois Central handled 174,194 revenue freight cars in April, against 186,486 in like period last year.

Pennsylvania R. R. Adds To City's Wealth

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

OVER $3,000,000 WILL BE ADDED to the wealth of Pittsburgh and surrounding communities as a result of the latest offering of stock to the employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad. A total of 360,000 shares has been allotted to employes at the par value of $50 a share. It has been estimated that 120,000 shares of this will be taken by workers in the central region of which Pittsburgh is the headquarters. A major share of the workers in this region live in Pittsburgh or are frequently in the city.

Based on the present price of Pennsylvania stock the employes in this region will be given securities which are worth over $3,000,000 more than the price they are paying. The road, in offering the stock, is making a gift to all its employes of over $9,000,000.

Due to this attractive feature officials expect nearly 100 per cent response. Each employe is entitled to purchase from one to 20 shares. Payment may be made in cash or in monthly payroll deductions of $10, $5 or $2 a share. The workers using the $10 a month basis will have their subscriptions paid by the end of the year.

To Issue Blanks

STARTING TOMORROW subscription blanks will be sent to employes, according to an announcement made by E. W. Smith, vice president of the road. The distribution of blanks will be completed within a week's time. The first payment on the stock will be made on August 1.

About 33,000 workers in the central region will be able to take advantage of the stock offering. These employes will be encouraged to save $6,000,000 which will have a market value, at the current price of the stock, of over $9,000,000.

Employe Ownership

THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD has made a practice of giving its workers exceptionally favorable terms for the purchase of stock. Participation of salaried workers in the ownership and profits of large corporation has proved to be one of the greatest factors in developing satisfactory relationships with labor.

A few corporations have had unfavorable results from employe ownership plans due to market reactions following the offerings. The Pennsyvania is leaving a sufficient broad margin between the offering price and the current quotations to insure against any such contingency as this.

To Yield 6 Per Cent

IN ADDITION TO ENCOURAGING thrift, the Pennsylvania is giving its workers a chance to buy the stock of one of the most stable corporations in the country, with a long record of unbroken dividend payments, at a price which yields 8 per cent on the investment.

Even after last week's break in the market it is not an easy task to find a stock in the Pennsylvania Railroad class at such a yield as is possible in the road's offering to its workers. The Pennsylvania has set an example which should be followed by more of our large corporations.

STEEL TONNAGE IMPROVES

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 5.—Iron and steel capacity in the Youngstown district continues at a firm 70 per cent operating rate during the week, schedules indicate, with some improvement in the mills producing flat-rolled steels required by the automobile industry.

There is disappointment in some quarters that May is not as yet producing a larger volume of new tonnage, enabling the Valley industry to climb to 80 per cent. Out of 120 Valley sheet mills, 95 are rolling, representing a gain of five per cent over the preceding week. Strip mills are maintaining 80 to 85 per cent operations in the hot-rolled product, but cold rolling strip units are still below normal.

Republic Steel Corporation averages 70 per cent; Carnegie Steel from 65 to 70 per cent; Youngstown Sheet & Tube, 65 per cent, and Sharon Steel Hoop, 85 per cent.

Empire Steel Corporation, Mansfield, is enlarging active capacity in the Mahoning Valley, operating units at its Thomas and Falcon properties.

Fabricating interests are averaging 80 to 85 per cent with a number of such interests running into their busy season.

May usually develops considerable new business, particularly from the automobile industry, but producers of primary steels are somewhat disappointed by the tonnage releases to date.

Unemployment in the Valley is being largely reduced, by reason of outside construction work, railroad improvement programs, bridge, road and building construction, and there is likely less unemployment in the district than at any time in the past nine months, some irregularity in employment continues by reason of varying schedules by primary steel makers.

Federal Light Co. Profits Increase

NEW YORK, May 5.—Federal Light and Traction Corporation reports for 12 months ended March 31, 1930, surplus of $2,093,193 after taxes, charges and preferred dividends of subsidiaries, compared with surplus of $2,032,263 in the previous 12 months.

March net income was $192,974 after taxes and charges, against $172,950 in March, 1929.

Youngstown Mill Operations Same

YOUNGSTOWN, May 5.—Output of mills in this district for this week is unchanged at 70 per cent. Sheet and Tube continues at 65 per cent; Republic at 70 per cent and Truscon at 90 per cent.

Building Permit Records Decline

NEW YORK, May 5.—Building permit records from 100 representative cities during April totaled $60,532,110, against $61,472,977 for March, S. W. Straus & Co. reports.

WEST GAINS IN EMPLOYMENT

SAN FRANCISCO.—(INS.)—Industrial conditions in California showed a slight improvement during March, with some decrease in unemployment, according to a survey issued by the United States Employment Service.

Although a surplus of labor continued in all industries, spring activities on farms and in orchards absorbed a number of workers, the report said. Approximately 3,000 workers will be employed for a brief period in vegetable canning operations, while additional help is required for the harvesting of the lettuce crop in the Watsonville-Salinas district.

An oversupply of labor was reported in the San Francisco district, including Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda, Richmond, Pittsburg, Vallejo and South San Francisco, although several factories were expected to increase their forces in the near future.

Buildings under way in San Francisco call for the expenditure of $12,600,000, the report said.

In the Los Angeles district, including Long Beach, Santa Monica, Pasadena and Riverside, many plants have been operating on reduced schedules, but several industries which have been slack showed signs of improvement, especially in the airplane manufacturing field. Municipal improvements to the extent of $6,910,839 were reported under construction in the Los Angeles district.

Decreases in unemployment were reported during March in both Oregon and Washington.

Hobby Production Requires Patience

LONDON.—The infinite skill and patience with which men may pursue their hobbies was shown at an exhibition of model engineering held recently in London. Exhibitors in amateur competitions were confined to those not professionally engaged in model engineering work. A farm laborer had made a small traction engine; a wine and spirit dealer had constructed a miniature four-masted ship; a dining car attendant had made a brass clock, and a florist had put together a model airplane, with a two-cylinder motor, that would fly for 20 minutes at a time. In the exhibition of miniature workshop was a tiny engine that had a hair for a driving band.

Electric Power Production Gains

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Public utility power plants in the United States produced 24,438,837,000 kilowatt hours of electricity during the first quarter of 1929, the Geological Survey states. Production for February and March increased 3 and 2 per cent, respectively, over the corresponding months of 1929.

Kelvinator Sets Shipments Record

According to W. H. Burritt, vice president in charges of sales, Kelvinator April shipments were in excess of those for March, best month in the history of the company, thus establishing a new high record for monthly shipments.

Steel Markets In Britain Quiet

LONDON, May 5.—Unusually quiet conditions continue in the British iron and steel industry. Buyers are placing orders from hand to mouth, and production has been further curtailed. Bulk of the limited output of Cleveland pig iron is fully absorbed in producers' own works. Owing to small demand for East coast hematite and large stocks, two furnaces have been dampened down.

Demand for semi-finished steel is irregular and the finished steel section is inactive, with structural steel and shipbuilding business slackening.

World Financing By U. S. Capital Increasing

WASHINGTON, May 5.—An analysis of new security issues sold on the American investment markets during the first quarter of the year, completed by Paul Dickens, Commerce Department finance specialist, specialist, shows that citizens of the United States are sending their capital abroad again on a steadily increasing scale. The actual value of foreign securities—mostly bonds—sold here during the period was $338,000,000, a figure which has not been reached in any like quarter for nearly two years.

A marked feature of the offerings taken was that international corporations engaged in the world-wide distribution of pertoleum and tobacco, and in public utility service abroad, were the borrowers of the larger portion of the sums.

PIPE LINE SALE CONCLUDED

OIL CITY, Pa., May 5.—(AP.)—Southern Pipe Line Company officials announced yesterday that the sale of part of their pipe lines extending from the West Virginia-Pennsylvania line near Morgantown, W. Va., to Millway, Pa., was completed to the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company May 1 after approval by the Public Service Commission. The sale price was approximately $500,000.

The Manufacturers Light and Heat Company sought the pipe lines for use in supplying the Philadelphia area with natural gas from West Virginia.

Federal Oil Report Praised By A. P. I.

NEW YORK, May 5.—At a meeting of directors of the American Petroleum Institute, a committee was appointed to draft a resolution commending the recent report made by the committee on petroleum economics for the Federal Oil Conservation Board. The report gave a balance sheet on oil, with estimates of supply and demand for 1930, and on the basis of these estimates calculated that the crude oil requirements from domestic sources would amount to 942,800,000 barrels, or 2,583,000 daily.

Imports of Wheat By Italy Decline

ROME, May 5.—(AP.)—Italy's wheat imports diminished by 919,884 hundredweight during April as compared with April, 1929, according to statistics submitted today to Premiere Mussolini by the director general of customs. From July 1, 1929, to April 30, of this year, the decrease was 12,583,507 hundredweight from the figure of the corresponding period in the previous year, tending to prove that the government is winning its "grain battle" by its intensive cultivation and reclammation projects.

Northwest Grain Outlook Improves

MINEAPOLIS, May 5.—Reports following rain Thursday night indicate the Northwest grain area as a whole is in very promising condition. Soil is moist and May 1 outlook for crop development perhaps as good as ever it was known to be.

Cal. Daily Average Oil Output Down

LOS ANGELES, May 5.—(AP.)—California crude oil production in the week ended May 3 averaged 632,340 barrels daily, or a decrease of 660 barrels daily from the previous week, according to the California Oil World.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Standard Gas and Electric Company reports combined net earnings of all the company's subsidiary and affiliated public utility companies for the 12 months ended February 28, 1930, showed an increase of $3,397,273 or 7.66 per cent as compared with the previous 12 months. Gross earnings increased $5,623,424 or 3.77 per cent.

CHICAGO TOOL INFLUENCED BY LULL

Seasonally Slow Quarter Accentuated by Recession In Steel Making Industry

CHICAGO, May 5.—While Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company's first quarter earnings were considerably below the like period in 1929, the comparison is less disappointing when it is considered that the first quarter last year was an unusually good one, and that this quarter ordinarily accounts for only a small percentage of the year's profits.

Based on the present capital structure, Chicago Pneumatic's earnings for the past five years have averaged $2.72 a common share. First quarter earnings in that period have averaged only 20 cents a share, or less than 10 per cent of the year's results.

CRASH REFLECTED

Chicago Pneumatic Tool reported net profit of $174,215 for the quarter ended March 31, 1930, or 5 cents a share for the 199,469 shares of common, compared with $325,301, or 80 cents a share in the like quarter of 1929. The steel industry, which is a good barometer of Chicago Pneumatic Tool's business, was operating close to capacity early last year, whereas this year it has been at about 80 per cent. In view of the curtailment in industrial activity following the stock market crash last fall, together with the fact that the first quarter is seasonally slow for the company, the results for the first three months of the year cannot be considered surprising.

In the five years from 1925 to 1929, net profit has averaged $1,201,540, and first quarter profits have averaged $204,887. First quarter profits this year were $30,672 below the five-year average, a decrease of nearly 15 per cent. The exceptionally poor conditions prevailing in the period must be considered in connection with this decrease. In every year since 1919 the company has reported a balance earned for its stock and in only one year, 1921, when many industrial companies showed large losses, has Chicago Pneumatic failed to carry a balance to surplus.

Chicago Pneumatic Tool has developed several products which should be important revenue producers as soon as industrial activity improves somewhat. With warmer weather approaching and a plentiful supply of credit obtainable at easy terms, building operations should be stimulated, and the demand for drilling equipment should be good.

DAILY TRUE STORY

A Business Course

"A woman's place—"

"I agree with you, Bertha," Nick Winter agreed.

Nick was that sort of a young man—always interrupting, always saying, "I'm way ahead of you," and mostly finishing other people's sentences.

"I'm glad you do, Nick," Bertha Riordan murmured, "because I was about to say that a woman's place is no longer in the home—that's mid-Victorian. It's out. A woman's place today is in business."

"Yeah? Be yourself, Bertha. A woman's place—my woman's place will be in my home—the new six-room home I bought. It would just suit you and—"

"Your woman's place may be in the home, your home, but I'm not your woman and—"

"Not yet, but you will be."

"No, Nick. I'm not the marrying sort. I'm going into business. A woman, these days, has just as good a chance to become a captain of industry as a man."

Nick stared at the girl.

"Quit spoofing, Bertha. We're going to be married."

"I'm not spoofing, but I am turning you down—just as I shall turn down any other man who may propose."

Nick wasn't heartbroken at all but his pride was hurt. He was the sort of chap who doesn't like to lose out on anything or be turned down, and so he assumed a regretful expression.

"I'm afraid, Bertha, that you aren't my sort of girl, after all," he said, "and we'd be unsuited to each other."

"Now whatever made you think of that?"

Bertha got a good laugh out of it. Nick had an uneasy feeling that the laugh was at his expense.

Business Career

Mrs. Riordan, Bertha's stepmother, was mightily displeased when Bertha turned Nick Winter down. She expressed herself to that effect.

"But I'm going to be a business woman in the first place, and I wouldn't marry Nick anyway, and—"

"Business! You don't know the difference between a filing cabinet and a bill of lading!"

"I am going to take a thorough business course," Bertha explained.

"You'd do better to spend what little money your father left you on a trousseau instead of a silly business course—jobs are scarce, Bertha, and you know I can't afford—"

The telephone enabled Bertha to excuse herself.

Barton's Business College was an old-fashioned institution. Bertha went to the office to see about the business course.

She thought that the man in the office was rather young, but she stated her wants quite gravely.

"It must be a thorough business course, Mr.—er—"

"Jamerson."

He said it curtly. Bertha beamed. That was the way all business men should speak. No wasted words, no lost motions.

"I don't want to be just a stenographer, or a filing clerk, or even a private secretary, Mr. Jameson."

"What is your object, Miss?"

"I want to become a regular business woman. I want to be able to step into any big commercial concern and hold down an executive job just as efficiently as any man. Other women do. I'm sure I can."

"Oh, yes, we have many women in big-paying and important positions who were graduated from this institution. Most of them started small and worked up. We can give you the instructions. How well you assimilate them, how thoroughly you grasp the methods of big business will be up to you."

"I can do that as well as any young man, can't I?"

"Most young women can. That is, if they try. But most young women do not, because they are thinking too much of dress, of young men, of their ultimate goal—matrimony—"

Begins Course

"That's piffle—I mean, nonsense! I'm not the marrying sort. I have no interest in matrimony or a home. I am all for business. Women have shown that they are just as capable as men in commercial life, Mr. Jameson."

"Some have, but at any rate I'm glad you are going to start with us. Typewriting, stenography and filing should not be neglected. When you step into the big executive position you will want to know all about those things so that you may capably handle the girls who do that lower grade of work."

She wasn't a star student by any means. In fact she attained only a medium rating in those things.

Bertha was surprised to see Mr. Jameson in the advanced class room where she went to take up, as she said, "the serious and worth-while side of business."

He was teaching a class in manufacturing cost accounting. Bertha had tried to study the text book. She felt quite prepared. Mr. Jameson's question to her, when it came her turn was: "My materials cost 35 per cent, labor 45 per cent, overhead expense in manufacture 20 per cent, selling expense 16 per cent. To make a 30 per cent profit what per cent of factory cost shall I charge?"

Bertha stared at Mr. Jameson. She tried to concentrate. She wondered why he had such handsome wavy hair when so many girls had to use curling irons. She wondered how he could afford to wear such costly, well-fitting clothes.

Mr. Jameson repeated the question slower.

"Oh, if I were the manager of the place I would have my efficiency expert work out those trivial details," Bertha finally said.

Mr. Jameson looked at her a moment and then he smiled pleasantly.

"That would be one way," he said.

After the class he stopped Bertha.

"Do you know, Miss Riordan," he said, "you could make a great deal more money in pictures or posing than you could in business. You are a very beautiful girl."

"But I want to become a celebrated business woman. I want to be another example of the practical woman who is as keen and efficient as any business man."

Jameson's Advice

"There's nothing like trying. Go through that section on cost accounting again. And also write copy for a half page advertisement of a savings bank appealing for the deposits of small-salaried people."

Bertha promised.

She studied that night.

Her advertising copy caused Mr. Jameson to cough violently and put the effort one side. He didn't read it aloud as he did the others.

He had a talk with Bertha after the class.

"I'm afraid you aren't adapted to commercial affairs, Miss Riordan," he said, and I seriously suggest some other line of endeavor."

"I am. Men are jealous; they don't want the world to know that women are their business equals and—and——"

Bertha tried to blink back the tears.

"Well, suppose I take you to a big commercial concern Saturday afternoon, Miss Riordan. A friend of mine is business manager. You can get a pretty good idea of things by listening and watching."

"I'd love to go," Bertha agreed.

Mr. Jameson took her. His car was a revelation in luxury. Bertha wondered how he could afford it.

The business manager proved to be a woman.

"I suppose Miss Riordan is your star pupil?"

"In a way, I consider her to be the star of all star pupils in the history of the Barton Business College," Jameson answered.

Bertha was amazed. She had a sneaking impression by this time that she was far from being a star student.

The woman business manager gave a dozen orders to people who came in, answered two telephones almost at the same time and then turned to Bertha.

"I'll be taking on an assistant in the fall, Miss Riordan, and it might as well be you. I suppose you can handle our discounts and check up on overtime."

"Why — er — that would be lovely," Bertha stammered.

Mr. Jameson took Bertha away.

"What do you think of it?" he asked her.

"I thought business executives sat at big, flat desks and just gave orders to assistants," Bertha stammered.

Signing a Contract

"Well, at any rate," Mr. Jameson hesitated and seemed to be trying not to laugh, "too much work isn't good. Let's go to some place to dance and eat."

"That would be lovely."

They went.

"My dear, you dance marvelously," Mr. Jameson told her.

"So do you, and it was awfully sweet of you to take me."

"Well, how about tomorrow? I have an aunt out in the country—beautiful old place. I'd love to have you drive out with me."

Bertha drove out with him.

The aunt received them from a divan. The doctor had just left after binding up a terribly twisted ankle and Polly, the colored woman, had a day off.

"I'll do the work," Bertha cried. "I'd love to."

Bertha served a wonderful luncheon. That was easy because the big refrigerator was well stocked.

Jack Jameson came into the kitchen and watched Bertha cleaning up the dishes.

"If I allow two per cent discount for ninety days and can get four per cent at the bank, what cash discount could I make without losing money?" he asked.

Bertha started at him. Then she began to cry.

"I—I hate business. I was mistaken—if you ever say per cent or discount or—or anything to me again I'll go mad and I'm not going to school any more——"

Jack went over and put his arms about her.

"You can't quit me, Bertha. My regular instructor is back now. You see I inherited those 12 Barton colleges in 12 different cities and I've got a nice job for you—I want to put you in full charge—"

"I won't! I hate business. I won't work in an office for five hundred a week—and—and I'm unhappy—"

"This job isn't in an office. I want you to take full charge of my home. You'll really be the general manager, but your official title will be Mrs. Jameson. I want you to sign a contract to that effect."

"A—a contract—to—to come and live with you?"

"It's being done—it's a marriage contract, you know."

"Oh, Jack—Jack—it's a swell life job and I'll take it," Bertha agreed.

Public Wants to Know What Graft Ring Is Responsible For System That Made Ohio Prison Horror Possible

A dozen times all the deplorable conditions which resulted in the Ohio Penitentiary fire have been brought to the attention of the Ohio government officials.

They have been told that the prison was inadequate, unsafe, unsanitary.

They have been repeatedly told by responsible commissions and welfare organizations that the prison was a fire trap, a constant menace to the lives of the prisoners.

They have been told of the graft and thievery which prevailed throughout the whole institution and the whole state prison system.

They have been told that the convicts had to pay for everything—

They had to pay for food, for blankets, for good behavior certificates; even for recommendations for parole.

What political gang is responsible for the inefficiency and corruption in Ohio's prison system?

What crooked politicians compose the gang?

What Ohio political judges stand ready to throw honest newspapermen into jail if the gang is exposed?

What obligations has the governor, if any, to the dominant political machine of Ohio?

What is holding the governor back from a genuine investigation, and a vigorous performance of his duty for the honor of the state?

The political system of Ohio has become a stench in the nostrils of the nation.

If Ohio's prison system and Ohio's political machine are as rotten with graft as responsible investigators have declared them to be, why do not the governor and the government and the press and people of Ohio take steps to remedy these corrupt conditions, and to expose the grafters?

Surely the light from the burning bodies of the wretched convicts is enough to show the way.

A horror almost unequaled by anything in history has occurred, and is taken as a matter of course by the governor.

He even endorses the theory advanced by one of the political gang that the convicts burned themselves to embarrass the humane guards and the honest politicians.

The people of the United States do not agree with the governor's theory of the fire, nor approve of the governor's plan to protect corrupt politicians.

The public wants to know—

What political ring is back of Ohio's prison graft?

What government officials are in the ring?

Why can not the state of Ohio be purified even by fire?

Why are not all the facts brought to light?

Why are not all the guilty brought to justice?

The people of the United States believe that there are a lot of people in the politics of Ohio who would better be in jail than the 322 convicts who were burned to death.

Among those burned convicts were many in jail for trifling infractions of the liquor law.

Five of those burned to death were in jail for such a trivial offense as driving an employer's automobile without permission.

Some were there for murder; BUT NONE WERE THERE FOR HAVING MURDERED 322 HELPLESS FELLOW MEN.

Ohio needs a new penitentiary; but more than that, it needs a new system; and further than that, it needs a new political system; and beyond that, it needs a new and decent political reputation.

It can get all of these things by a little good citizenship and honest government.

And when Ohio gets its new penitentiary, the Hearst papers respectfully suggest that the people celebrate that notable event by filling the new penitentiary with the old politicians.

Both Davis and Pinchot Win Impressive Support

Both Will Bring Relief From Grundy-Fisher Gang.

Friends of James J. Davis, candidate for the United States Senate, and Gifford Pinchot, candidate for Governor, have reason to be pleased with the progress of their campaigns. Both have been presenting their candidacies to the voters in a manner that cannot fail to win ballots.

Davis' campaign is notable for the fact that none of his statements as to what he has done for the public welfare in his many years in office—and his record of achievements is an imposing one—has been challenged. On the other hand the pretensions of his chief opponent, Senator Joseph R. Grundy, have been riddled repeatedly.

Grundy represents to the average citizen high tariff, organization politics, and lobbying of questionable propriety. Though he has been before the public for many years, he has not been conspicuous for much else. His setting himself up, therefore, as a champion of humanitarian legislation is just a little amusing. The Fisher-Grundy machine has not been distinguished for humanitarian legislation.

Pinchot continues to meet the issues squarely. There is no double meaning in anything that he says. He promises, if the Legislature fails to abolish the infamous coal and iron police system, to do it himself by refusing to sign the policemen's commissions. And Pinchot keeps his promises. His election offers the only opportunity to rid the state of the abuses that have been perpetuated by the Fisher-Grundy gang.

Growth of South Hills Astonishing in Extent

Everybody who gets around on an evening or Sunday motor trip has noted the phenomenal growth of South Hills communities, now estimated to have a total population of 125,000, yet the extent of the expansion, as revealed by census returns, is astonishing. McKees Rocks, Carnegie, Dormont and Mt. Lebanon, the latter with an increase of 500 per cent over the previous census figures, are points just outside of the city that have had healthy growth. West End, Elliott and Sheraden, combined as the Twentieth Ward, show an increase of 19 per cent.

The reason for this extension of the city, for, of course, the territory actually is part of Pittsburgh, though some of it is not officially so, is easy to put the finger on. That is accessibility. The fine home sites of the South Hills were made remote by the cliffs of the Monongahela and Ohio Rivers. Penetration of them by excellent roads, and the Liberty Tubes and bridge, gave impetus to a trend in that direction that began even before these short cuts were brought into existence.

With the completion of extensive improvements under way there will be inducement for residential expansion in other directions from the city proper, and the South Hills may have to step out to maintain in the next census the record it has set in the present one.

No matter in what suburb we, and others who may come to join us, choose to build our homes, Pittsburgh is a good place to live in—North, South, East or West.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Fathers and Mothers—are you giving your young son a square deal?

Aren't there too many don'ts in your home?

You want him to stay at home nights, but you object to his amusing himself as he desires.

There are certain things you want him to do, but usually they are the things that he does not want to do.

You seem to forget that he is a restless young animal.

Certainly, he will do some damage to the furnishings.

He will break things that cost money to replace.

You should expect this and not be too hard on him.

And his room; how have you provided for him there?

Did you consult him when it was furnished?

Or did you dump all the things you wanted to discard in the boy's room?

Why should he have a lot of mismatched furniture in his room any more than any other member of the family?

Have you allowed him to have a work bench in the basement or in the garage?

Is there any place around home where he can do as he pleases?

Once Around the Dial

Have the dial phones struck your town yet? They're coming sure.

"Bugs" Baer

The company is installing them as rapidly as the clerks can fill out the complaints.

The dial jigger is progress with a relapse. President Hoover refused to have 'em in the White House as he prefers to let central do the guessing.

The instructions are as plain as the whaling industry sponsored by Simple Simon. You take the receiver off the hook and drop in a nickel.

Listen for a buzzing sound. When you get the same reaction as that caused by an overdose of quinine you start dialing.

The dialing with the forefinger of the right hand is accomplished clockwise. It is almost like betting on one of those wheels at a church raffle for you never get a box of candy.

First dial the exchange. Then dial your series of numbers. You are your own central. It's one invention they cannot blame on Thomas Edison.

Science is never a perfect, well-rounded whole. Science is never complete or finished. It partakes of the evolutionary process. It is in a state of constant flux. New discoveries play a duplex role. They add to our knowledge. They also reorganize past knowledge and throw things in a new perspective. The advance of science is often like the shaking of a kaleidoscope. New knowledge shakes things up and enables us to see them in a new pattern, a fresh grouping.

One of the great, unsolved mysteries of science is the nature of light. It is on a footing with electricity, gravity, magnetism and other mysterious forces and phenomena of nature. We know what they will do, what effects they will produce, but we don't know what causes them.

There is much uncertainty today among physicists regarding the nature of light. Some modern discoveries have led us back to Newton and caused us to re-examine his views as to the nature of light. The scientists of today are discovering the permanent value of many ideas and theories which passed through the powerful alembic of Newton's mind.

The suggestion that light is a material quantity subject to gravitational influence is an idea to which Einstein has accustomed us. But he would not put it that way. He would say that light is a form of energy; and he identified matter with energy. Moreover, he would say that the light, which is energy, is subject to the influence of the gravitational field. Let us see what Newton said more than three and a half centuries ago:

"Light is neither aether, nor its vibrating motion, but something of a different kind propagated from lucid bodies. They that will, may suppose it an aggregate of various peripatetic qualities. Others may suppose it multitudes of unimaginable small and swift corpuscles of various sizes springing from shining bodies . . . and continually urged forward by a principle of motion, which in the beginning accelerates them, till the resistance of the aetherial medium equals the force of that principle much after the manner that bodies let fall in water are accelerated till the resistance of the water equals the force of gravity."

The above passage, which is a summary of prevailing views, is found in Newton's communication to the Royal Society in 1675, entitled "An Hypothesis Explaining the Properties of Light." Thirty years later, in his treatise, "Opticks," he proposed some extraordinary queries, to which no satisfactory answers had then been found. Among them are the following:

"Do not bodies act upon light at a distance, and by their action bend its rays?

"Are not the rays of light very small bodies emitted from shining substances? For such bodies will pass through uniform mediums in right (straight) lines without bending into the shadow, which is the nature of rays of light . . . Pellucid substances act upon the rays of light at a distance in refracting, reflecting and inflecting them, and the rays mutually agitate the parts of those substances in heating them; and this action at a distance very much resembles an attractive force between bodies."

These and cognate ideas furnished the foundation for recent views of Einstein, Eddington and Jeans.

Text for Today Who is a God like unto thee, that pardoneth iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage? He retaineth not his anger for ever, because he delighteth in mercy. He will turn again, he will have compassion upon us; he will subdue our iniquities; and thou wilt cast all their sins into the depths of the sea.—Micah vii:18, 19.

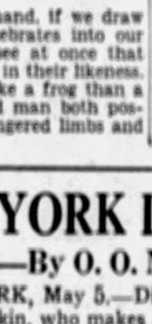
THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

But it is perhaps not often realized how extremely close the resemblance is, and how, if a Martian scientist, with no personal prejudices on the subject, had been given the task of classifying the animal inhabitants of our planet, he would at once have put man in the same small group as the tailless apes with the same lack of hesitation with which he would have classified the hive-bee and the solitary bee together; and how quite unintelligible he would have found the long failure of human naturalists to take this step, and the storm of protest which arose when at last a few bold and logical spirits dared to take the objective view of man's place in nature.

The closeness of our likeness to the apes may best be realized by measuring it against our likeness to other vertebrates.



H. G. Wells

Take a man's body and compare it with a frog's.

A man is really very like a frog in the general plan of construction; both have internal skeletons made of bone; a spinal cord running along the back, enclosed in the backbone's tunnel: brain in a brain-box; eyes, ears, nose, mouth, and teeth in the same general relation; two pairs of limbs, with skeleton corresponding almost bone for bone; and a close resemblance in the plan of their internal anatomy.

Their chemical arrangements, too, are quite alike. Both have livers which break up amino-acids and store sugars as glycogen; both have a pancreas which secrets trypsin; the adrenalin manufactured by the frog's adrenal glands is not only like, but chemically identical with the product of the adrenal glands of man.

In these and scores of other ways a man is not only like a frog, but unlike the vast majority of animal types. The man-frog plan of structure and working is definitely unlike that of a cuttle-fish, or an ant, or a crab, or a leech, or a sea-urchin. In zoological terms, men and frogs are vertebrates, and these other animals are not.

On the other hand, if we draw a few other vertebrates into our comparison, we see at once that there are degrees in their likeness.

Man is more like a frog than a fish, for frog and man both possess lungs and fingered limbs and a fish does not.

But man is less like a frog than a dog, for man and dog both have hair, and divided hearts, and warm blood, and teeth of several different sorts, and milk, and young that are nourished in the womb; and frogs have none of these things. In terms of classification, men and dogs are mammals, frogs are not.

But again a man is less like a dog than a chimpanzee. For man and chimpanzee have nails, not claws, and grasping hands with the thumb opposable to the rest of the fingers, and limbs for walking and climbing; they have no tail; their females have a single pair of breasts; their brains are large and deeply furrowed and convoluted.

And in all these ways and many others, notably in their teeth, they differ from dogs. In zoological terms, men and apes are primates, dogs are carnivores.

But the resemblance between man and chimpanzee is much closer than these facts alone would indicate. We have already seen how close is their invisible, chemical resemblance. Then the visible resemblance permeates every detail of their anatomy.

Their skeletons are not merely alike in general plan, but correspond actually bone by bone; the grinding teeth are extremely similar in pattern; the ape's hands and face and expression are all but human. In a number of points the chimpanzee or the gorilla differ more from the other great apes than they do from man.

It used to be asserted that there exited definite structures in man's anatomy, especially in his brain, which were absent in apes.

T. H. Huxley, as far back as 1863, demonstrated in his classical essay, "Man's Place in Nature," that this was not true. The differences between human structures and ape structures are only differences of degree.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 5.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Came Frederic J. Haskin, who makes a living answering questions of newspaper readers, from Washington, and we discovered we were born in the same section of Missouri and he told me he had 112 employes replying to about 17,000 queries a day.

Home and reading my mail which included an amusing note from A. Brisbane and laboured until late in the afternoon and then with my wife to do some "window wishing" in front of the big stores but saw nothing we would care to carry home.

In the evening to see "The Last Mile" again, a ghastly expose of prison life, and on later to a merry party and V. V. McNitt, J. P. McEvoy, Dr. George Rockwell, Rube Goldberg, Charles MacAdam, Roe Fulkerson, Zoe Beckley and Joseph Gollomb there and we talked until long past 2 o'clock and I wish some one had shut my big mouth.

Swimming is now an all-year diversion in New York. Five large hotels have nata—, natu—, well, swimming pools. These are in addition to those in the Y. M. C. A. and Turkish baths. There are also some 30 swimming clubs, the memberships being made up largely of Swedish, Norwegian and Finnish. Finns—and why not if there is anything in a name?—are always good swimmers.

Perhaps the best known club is the Women's Swimming Association on East Seventy-seventh street. The members include many holders of world records—Gertrude Ederle, first woman to swim the English channel; Martha Norelius, Olympic champion in 1924 and 1928; Helen Meany, Olympic and national diving champion; Agnes Geraghty, national breast stroke champion; Ethel McGarry, national long distance champion; Aileen Riggin, Olympic and national high diving champion; Helen Wainwright, many times national champion and Lisa Lindstrom, national back stroke champion.

A Broadway chili parlor emphatically announces on its menu: "We don't sell booze, and if you bring it in from the outside we will call a cop."

Incidentally, two restaurants in Times Square that enjoyed profitable patronage without serving liquor began to bootleg drinks a year ago. One went into bankruptcy and the other is for sale. Selling booze is not always profitable, says he, talking like an antisaloon leaguer.

A celebrated actress is reputed an ether addict, which brings on fits of weeping in the agonizing and inarticulate roles she often portrays. Her finest performances are said to be while under influence of the drug.

Another famous actress stutters slightly off stage, but it is never apparent across the footlights. The late Nat Goodwin had an impediment in his speech which was never noticed by the audience. Somerset Maugham also stutters. And Harry Richman has a lisp.

* * *

A. E. Matthews, one of the highly talented British actors, has a pronounced limp as a memento of gallantry in action during the late war, and yet it absolutely vanishes when he is on the stage.
